GRAY FILES APPEAL; SOMMERS UNDECIDED

VANCOUVER (CP)—An appeal was filed today on behalf of H. Wilson Gray, timber firm executive who along with former provincial lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, was sentenced Friday to five years in prison for conspiracy and bribery.

J. R. Nicholson, counsel for Gray, said appeals also were being filed on behalf of Grays firms, Pacific Coast Services Ltd., and Evergreen Lumber Sales.

Angelo Branca, who defended Sommers at the lengthy trial, said no decision has yet been made on the question of appealing on behalf of the former minister.

REPLY TO BONNER

Sturdy Says Delay Due To Election

Attorney General Robert Bonner was in "a better position" to lay charges against Robert Sommers and H. Wilson Gray in July, 1956, than in November, 1957, when they were arrested, lawyer David Sturdy stated today.

"It is my personal belief that Mr. Bonner held back from making these charges because of the provincial general election on Sept. 19," Mr. Sturdy told The Times from his office in Vancouver.

Mr. Sturdy said that Mr. Bonner had all the necessary evidence in July, 1956 and was "in a better position then because it was all much fresher."

Sommers and Gray were sentenced to five years' imprisonment Friday for their part in bribery and conspiracy cases involving forest management licences.

Mr. Sturdy today took issue with Mr. Bonner's 13-page statement Friday in which he defended his actions in the case.

"I believe Mr. Bonner waited until after Sommers' slander suit against me was dismissed and then, because of pressure of public opinion, decided to have Sommers and Gray arrested."

"All the information I have points to that course of procedure."

Mr. Sturdy challenged the truth of Mr. Bonner's statement on two main grounds:

1. That Mr. Bonner had no substantial evidence on which to base a prosecution until November, 1957.

2. That on Dec. 7, 1955, Charles Eversfield and Mr. Sturdy failed to give him a body of evidence.

"Neither statement is true," Mr. Sturdy said. "In the first ground, all the evidence necessary to prosecute is contained in the Butler RCMP report which Mr. Bonner had in July, 1956.

"I have read the Butler report. I have made a complete memorandum of its contents. It is all there."

On the second ground, Mr. Sturdy said Mr. Bonner had enough evidence from the 1955 interview with himself and Mr. Eversfield.

Strong Evidence in Butler Report

"What he did in 1957 he should have done in 1955. If I had given as much information to a detective as I gave to Mr. Bonner, there would have been an arrest within two weeks," Mr. Sturdy declared.

Mr. Sturdy said there were two main elements in the original case:

1. Giving or lending money to a cabinet minister.

2. Proving that the giving or lending was for corrupt purposes.

He said the Butler report had showed Mr. Bonner there was "strong and sound evidence" that money had been transferred and that Mr. Bonner by his own inquiries could have learned the purpose for which the transfers were made.

"If Mr. Bonner had made these inquiries he must have come up with the evidence to answer that question, but I told Mr. Bonner there was a strong prima facie case against Sommers and H. W. Gray and Gray's companies. We then got into an argument about prima facie cases."

"I insisted that my evidence was enough to warrant an immediate inquiry. The fact is that all evidence at the trial stems from Eversfield's documents and information."

"The truth is Mr. Bonner was bewildered and frightened and he didn't want to hear what I had to say."

"He had the whole evidence presented to him in the Butler report, but did not act on it for 15 months."

Mr. Sturdy said Mr. Bonner refused to act early in the Sommers case, not because of any lack of evidence, but "because he wished to protect his colleague and his party from a scandal."

Mr. Sturdy concluded:

"Having done what I set out to do—getting this evidence investigated—I would rather renounce the whole affair. But I feel Mr. Bonner's statement is so inaccurate that I should at least answer it."

New Power Manager Appointed

Briggs to Address Vernon Businessmen

By PETE LOUDON
Appointment of B.C. Power Commission chief engineer R. C. McDermid as acting general manager to replace deposed "rebel" H. Lee Briggs, was announced today.

Commission chairman T. H. Crosby, who made the announcement, said Mr. McDermid also would continue to fill his engineering office.

Meanwhile, Mr. Briggs, who was fired Friday for criticizing government power policies, will travel to Vernon Wednesday to speak on his convictions that the publicly-owned power commission is being undermined by private firms, with government assistance.

The invitation was issued by Vernon Board of Trade following Mr. Briggs' dismissal.

WITHDRAW

Mr. Briggs issued a statement this morning reiterating that he will defend his contentions, but otherwise "I am most anxious from this point on, to withdraw entirely into the background."

He added: "I ask and indeed beg of the members of the press and others, that they consider my part of this disastrous job as done and finished."

As to his future, he said he hopes it will be possible for him to carry on "... in the electric power field. The authorities to whom I may henceforth be privileged to answer can rest assured that barring the most extreme provocation, the conventional lines of report will be observed rigorously."

SEE IT THROUGH

He confirmed, however, that he will remain in this area to see the storm he started carefree to its conclusion. He has already rejected an offer of employment from an electrical company in eastern Canada.

He has also promised that before any general election may be called he will, without any political affiliation or without any political ambition of his own, "stamp" the province telling electors of the dangers inherent in permitting the Wenner-Gren interests to develop natural power resources in B.C.

Asia, Africa Have 'Bridged' Commonwealth

By ALAN DONNELLY

Canadian Press Staff Writer
LAHORE, West Pakistan (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today the new Asian-African members of the Commonwealth have made it a bridge of understanding between continents.

The Canadian leader, in the first speech of his Asian tour, also said there can be "no thought of economic or political subordination" in such an association of partners and friends. He spoke at a special convocation at the University of the Punjab, which awarded him an honorary doctor of laws degree.

"I think it is sometimes forgotten how uniquely these Commonwealth countries in Asia and Africa have contributed to the evolution of the concept of the Commonwealth as we know it today," he said. Text of the speech was issued to the press before delivery.

Pakistan and others, though not sharing common British ancestry, chose to remain in the Commonwealth "because our and they valued our common heritage of free institutions and our common recognition of the worth of man."

The Commonwealth thus had become "a bridge of understanding" between peoples of very race, creed and color, not only in the Commonwealth but in the entire free world.

The Prime Minister said that through Colombo Plan aid Canada welcomes its debt to the ancient cultures of the East.

Mr. Diefenbaker's speech specially noted the new Commonwealth scholarship plan for students and teachers. He said that in full operation the plan will cover 1,000 students and teachers, with Canada providing for one-quarter of them.

Gas Boycott By Unions Ineffective

The recent decision by Victoria labor unions to put Imperial Oil products and gas stations on their "we do not patronize" list is not having any effect on sales, a company spokesman said today.

The boycott decision followed the unanimous approval by the Victoria Labor Council to honor a request from the Seafarers' International Union to put Imperial Oil on the no-patronize list.

The action stemmed from certification of the SIU as bargaining agent for members of two company ships.

EXPECTED DROP

"We expected a drop in revenue, especially from gas," said spokesman, "but there has been no sign at all that the boycott is being carried into effect."

Sixty-eight unions representing 13,000 men could extend boycott to 20 Imperial stations in Greater Victoria. A similar boycott in Vancouver has been only partially effective.

Nkrumah Shuffles Ghana Cabinet Posts

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah Sunday announced a reshuffle of his cabinet, under which he will take over the key interior ministry portfolio from Krobo Edusei. Edusei becomes communications minister. No official reason was given for the changes, which are effective today.

From CP Dispatches

VANCOUVER.—The Dominion, one of CPR's transcontinental passenger trains, struck a big wet mud and rock slide early Sunday near Haig, 90 miles east of here. Four diesel units and two of the 23 cars were derailed.

Twenty people were injured, three being taken to hospital at Chilliwack for treatment. The railway said none was hurt seriously.

The derailment occurred at 6:20 a.m. Sunday as the westbound Dominion moved through a rock cut on the main east-west line.

Among the passengers were Lieutenant-Governor Frank Bastedo of Saskatchewan and Mr. Bastedo, who were en route to Vancouver to be guests of Lieutenant-Governor Frank-Ross of B.C. The Bastedos were not injured.

The four diesel units at the head of the train plowed through about 40 feet of the slide before leaving the track and plunging 50 feet down a tree-studded embankment. It came to rest 150 feet above the swirling Fraser River.

The 35-year-old fireman, John McMillan, said it was all over in a few seconds, that seemed like three weeks.

Buses brought the stranded passengers to Vancouver. The train carried 142 passengers.

A work train was despatched from North Bend to open the line which was cleared Sunday night.

BODY FOUND

MERRITT—A skin diver Sunday recovered the body of one of two men who drowned in Nicola Lake Friday when their loaded lumber truck plunged off the Merritt-Kamloops Highway and into the water.

R.C.M.P. called off the search for the second body. The truck was pulled from 90 feet of water about 100 feet from shore.

Police withheld the names of the two men.

RUSSIAN SHIP DOCKS

VANCOUVER—The Russian scientific research vessel Vityaz docked here Saturday to take on supplies and fuel. She heads back out to sea Wednesday.

The public is being allowed aboard today (Monday) to inspect marine and oceanology exhibits, with commentaries being given in English.

Sixty scientists on board are headed by Dr. N. Sysoev of the Institute of the Academy of Science, Moscow. The 5,500-ton Vityaz, out of Vladivostok, has been sounding the depths of the North Pacific and checking marine life.

Tuesday 30 scientists from the University of B.C. and the Pacific Naval Laboratory at Esquimalt will tour the ship's laboratories and discuss marine science with the Russians.

MOLESTER WHACKED

VANCOUVER—A woman hit a would-be molester on the head with a club bag Sunday night, then followed him until police arrived.

The man approached Mrs. June Morall. She whacked him over the head with the bag and then ran to a service station, telling the attendants to call the police. Then she followed about 100 yards behind the man, using bushes to conceal herself, but eventually lost sight of him at a street corner.

She continued her search and spotted a suspect in a drug store. Police are holding an unidentified 25-year-old man for investigation.

SUSPECT FREED

VANCOUVER—Police have released a man picked up for questioning Saturday shortly after fire swept through a downtown rooming house killing one man.

Police and fire wardens continued the hunt for a man said to have been seen throwing a large can into the doorway of Beaver Lodge rooms shortly before the fire broke out.

The middle-aged man burned to death has been tentatively identified, but police withheld his name.

A second man who died in another Vancouver fire Saturday has been identified as George Smith Bertram, 54, whose body, burned beyond recognition, was found in a Quebec Street house in the city's south-central section. Three other men escaped in the same fire.

First Cabinet 'Gun' Heads For Campaign

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant probably will be the first cabinet minister to take part in the by-election campaign in the political no-man's-land of Rossland-Trail.

He left Sunday with the deputy minister, Arnold Webb, to tour public buildings in the Interior.

Mr. Chant said Friday he had planned this trip before the by-election was announced. He says his new deputy has to obtain a first-hand knowledge of the buildings in his domain.

But Mr. Chant had a ready "yes" when asked if he would speak at any political rally which might be called while he is in the Rossland-Trail riding.

"I think it's too early for speechmaking, but I'm always open to political discussions. If called upon to speak, I will do so," he said.

The only clue to opposition in the satellite regime could appear in the size of the vote. The tally is not expected until later today.

EAST GERMANS ELECT 'PUPPET' PARLIAMENT

BERLIN (AP)—East Germans elected a rubber-stamp Parliament, Sunday.

Only one slate of candidates, hand-picked by the Communists, was offered, but the government called for a heavy vote for the show-window effect on the outside world.

The only clue to opposition in the satellite regime could appear in the size of the vote. The tally is not expected until later today.

ARTHUR LAING
...basically wrong"

LIBERALS LAUNCH DRIVE

Era of 'Violent Politics' Rapped

TRAIL (CP)—An end to what he termed "violent politics" in British Columbia was advocated here Saturday by B.C. Liberal leader Arthur Laing.

Speaking at the convention which say Dr. M. E. Krause, 58, nominated as the party's standard bearer in the Dec. 15 by-election here, Mr. Laing noted that the province has had general elections in 1949, 1952, 1953, 1956 "and now this 1958 contest.

"That's a total of five elections in nine years," he said. "We've got to stop this violent politics. When the government comes to a crisis like this, something is basically wrong."

"We don't need money today to fight political battles. But we need conviction in cause and dedication to the public service."

Dealing with power, Mr. Laing said he is not against development of the North country, but he did not want Peace River power delivered to Vancouver and the Lower Mainland if it meant curtailing development of the Columbia River.

MORE EXPENSIVE

"The St. Laurent government," added Mr. Laing, figured eventual development of the Columbia in co-operation with the U.S., would result in a cost of 2.2 mills per kilowatt for power in Vancouver. The rate will be 6.4 mills in Vancouver for the same power from the North."

Mr. Laing recommended irrigation and a ceiling on land used for agricultural purposes only in the Fraser Valley as a means to cut down on the $150,000,000 worth of foods, cereal grains, etc., brought into B.C. yearly.

The B.C. leader, who left for Ottawa Sunday, said he would return Nov. 22 and campaign on Dr. Krause's behalf until election day.

TORIES PICK MAN IN ROSSLAND-TRAIL

Eyes of Canada on 'Election Jury'

TRAIL (CP)—Ald. Alex Brokenshire of Trail was nominated by acclamation Saturday to represent Progressive Conservatives, in the Dec. 15 Rossland-Trail by-election.

More than 200 persons, 180 of them voting delegates, jammed the Canadian Legion hall to see the 41-year-old father of four, a widower since the death of his wife last year, get the convention's blessing.

Deane Finlayson, provincial leader, told the nominating convention that the eyes of the people of Canada are focussed on the by-election, called to fill the seat made vacant by the resignation of convicted conspirator Robert Sommers, former lands and forests minister.

"In this district alone," he added, "a jury of more than 15,000 will try, judge and sentence the provincial government, which is on trial.

"When the Social Credit candidate is elected, it will be the people vs. the government that has broken faith."

The main question to be asked of the people, said Mr.

Finlayson is whether they approve of corruption in government?

"Rossland-Trail," continued the Conservative leader, "has virtually been without a voice in the legislature since 1956."

Warning to Farmers

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT apparently is planning fundamental changes in its agricultural policies. If so, the Government is wise. For the difficulties of our farm industry, in many departments at least, are fundamental, not superficial or temporary.

Mr. Harkness, minister of agriculture, who seems to be a man of candor and courage, tells a convention of farmers in Ottawa that they need not expect the Canadian state to guarantee them the sort of prices they would like to enjoy.

If, as Mr. Harkness says, support prices are kept too high they will encourage surplus and unsaleable production. That, of course, is exactly what has happened in the United States. There the attempted remedy is to limit the farmers' crop areas by law, but the remedy has not worked. Even where acreage has been reduced, as in the wheat industry, output has not fallen proportionately. With new methods, the farmers have grown more wheat on less land.

Mr. Harkness says Canada will not enforce compulsory acreage limitation and he does not believe the farmers want it. Instead, the Government will rely on their intelligence, expecting them to produce less of the unsaleable and more of the saleable crops.

Nevertheless, the policy of price supports throughout agriculture is likely to raise grave problems no matter what price the Government guarantees to pay. At times of falling prices the Government, paying a little more than the open market, may accumulate large stores of farmstuffs and the cost to the taxpayers may be heavy.

Mr. Harkness sees these dangers

Father's Out Moonlighting

A CHURCH statement has drawn attention to the social effects of "moonlighting" on the Canadian family.

When a father takes on a second job, after his normal day's work, he has less time to spend with his children, the statement notes with obvious logic. Hence the family suffers the loss of what is sometimes called "the head of the house."

This concern for the family with an absent father is parallel, in some respects to that expressed generally over the working mother. In each case growing children are denied the attention they might reasonably expect from a parent—an attention which social workers consider the strongest force in raising the young to become good citizens.

An interesting study was made on that point in Britain some time ago. Investigations there indicated that mothers were working, as well as fathers, generally to provide a better home, in a material sense, for their children. The extra money they made furnished added comforts and amenities.

Moreover, it was pointed out, and the only workable answer to them. The farm industry of Canada, he says, must be put on a more efficient and economic basis.

Today some parts of the industry—wheat, for example—are highly efficient where the farmer has been able to cultivate large areas with modern machinery. Other parts are inefficient, as compared with their foreign competitors, and with urban Canadian industries. Too many men are farming small, uneconomic areas without modern machinery and their costs of production are too high. There will be no basic solution of their difficulties until they can secure larger farms and better machinery.

In most cases they lack capital for their expansion but Mr. Harkness indicates that the Government will help them with a new system of loans. That would be a fundamental attack on some vital aspects of our agricultural problem, especially in the case of small mixed farms.

It is quite clear, however, that the Government's policy, in respect both of prices and capital investment, will fall far short of the farmers' hopes.

They were led, in the last national election, to expect far more than the Government could possibly deliver. The purpose of Mr. Harkness' speech, we take it, is to modify some excessive political promises, to warn the farmers that they must hold their costs down because the state cannot hold their prices up beyond a rather modest point.

But, even with new efficiency, Mr. Harkness does not say how costs can be held down when the price of everything the farmer must buy, and the wages of his help, are constantly rising.

As Our Readers See It

A Dollar Apiece

It is gratifying to note how quickly Victorians responded to the Springhill Mine disaster, by generously donating money to aid the victims.

Unfortunately there appear to be many individuals and businesses in Victoria who choose to ignore the hundreds of small disasters that occur annually in our own city, by failing to give adequately or not at all to our Community Chest.

As has so often happened in the past, the Chest drive is just short of its goal, but enough to hamper the agencies in their work next year.

Knowing the extent of the readership of our local newspaper, I believe that if everyone who reads this were to send only one dollar each to the Community Chest, the drive would go over the top.

The Nelson Touch'

Admiral Lord Nelson became a symbol of the great English nation because he followed his convictions even against the specific orders of his superiors. History immortalized him for this attitude, and "the Nelson touch" is today a common-use phrase.

On this continent our children live daily by the memories of wild-west heroes, who in the pioneering days went single-handed against evil, oppression, corruption and fought to the bitter end for what they considered just and right. In every such story there is ample evidence that local population rose from the normal state of apathy and followed the righteous leader, giving him all support and help.

The greatness of the people in every country is measured by the strength of character of those individuals who can rise in stature for a righteous cause, in complete disregard of personal consequences.

The people of British Columbia are lucky indeed to have in our ranks individuals like David Sturdy and H. Lee Briggs, who have the courage of their convictions and the sense of public duty. It was the pressure of the public opinion which brought Mr. Sturdy's case to a successful and just ending. It is equally hoped that the same public opinion will lend its support to the case of Mr. Briggs and demand a thorough investigation of charges raised.

Free Rides for OAPs

Now that the cost of living has gone sky high, including bus fares, consideration should be given to our senior citizens.

Many who pioneered and fought for this country paved the way for some of these racketeer politicians.

The least the B.C. Electric could do is issue a pass allowing the old age pensioners to travel free. The provincial government could also issue a card which could be punched every time a purchase is made allowing the pensioner to buy tobacco tax free.

God bless the pioneers who made this a wonderful country and to H— with those who try to corrupt it.

CONCERNED.

Disagrees:

Larry Tickner's letter of "facts" asks for more correspondence. Mine does not second his ideas.

The premier and newspapers are not against labor as such, they and most working people see too plainly that unions are foiling themselves, by pricing themselves out of work and upsetting the whole economy of this province. Keeping up with the Joneses is poor policy at all times, and labor here is worse, they are the Joneses of Canada. Other workers cannot employ them and most seem to try do-it-yourself jobs instead.

Tickner's hymn of fate is not in evidence here as it was in Germany.

There was a time when trade unions were needed, when John Burns fought for sixpence an hour (12 cents) for dockers—which they struck for—and many years afterwards.

Conditions have changed, dictatorship of the proletariat is here as far as the unions are concerned but not for other workers who pay the same prices for commodities. Socialism was meant to care for the lower paid people not to raise a new aristocracy of unionists and high-paid officials.

W. J. M.

It is useful, however, to have any agency remind a parent that one of the most important jobs he can perform is in his own home with his own family. That is one area in which the "do-it-yourself" technique is usually preferable to the service of the professional.

Moreover, it was pointed out,

A TALK WITH THE LEADER OF THE SOVIET UNION

Mr. Khrushchev Sees the Revolution Not Only as It Is But as It Is Going To Be

(During a recent visit to Moscow, Mr. Lippmann was granted a two-hour interview with Mr. Khrushchev.)

AFTER the preliminary courtesies Mr. K. waved his hand at me and said he was ready to answer my questions. I began by saying that relations between our two countries had deteriorated since the summit meeting at Geneva in 1955, and would the chairman comment on this. Relations, he said, have not become worse. They were bad in 1955. They are bad now, and they have not become any better. The question, he added, is whether our relations are to be frozen where they are now or are to become better or worse. I reminded him that at the time of the Geneva meeting there had been hopes of much better relations.

Yes, he said, but in the West these hopes were based on a false premise. Dulles and Churchill—or as he put it "that old wolf Churchill"—had hoped that after Stalin's death there would be a change in the internal policy of the U.S.S.R., and that the country would turn away from the strengthening of its "socialist achievements".

When they saw that the successors of Stalin were not going to liquidate the Communist system but that these successors did want to relax the tension on the basis of the status quo, the West reverted to the tactics of the cold war.

Lippmann

They had hoped to win us over but we shall never be diverted from the path of socialism. Never!

At the next interval I seized the chance to ask Mr. K. to tell me what he understood by the "status quo". The answer to this crucial question, it soon appeared, is in his mind a complex one, and the bulk of the interview which followed was a gradual unfolding of what the phrase means in his mind.

It will, I think, help the reader if at this point I interrupt the narrative and summarize what, as I reflected on the whole interview afterwards, seemed to me to be the main elements in his conception of the "status quo".

There is another very important component in his conception of the status quo. This has to do with the balance of military power.

Judging by what he said, and by what was implied in what he said, I would describe his view of the existing military balance of power as follows. It rests, I feel reasonably certain, on his confidence that the Soviet Union has mastered the intermediate and short range missiles to a point where it can dominate with them Germany and Western Europe, Turkey and Iran.

I do not know, of course, whether his confidence in these missiles is justified. But there is no doubt that he assumes their existence in his thinking, and that they have now become, as the saying goes, a principal instrument of Soviet foreign policy.

Military Stalemate

On the other hand, nothing that he said implied that he thinks the U.S.S.R. has long range missiles which have broken, or are about to break, the existing military stalemate with the United States.

His conception of his military position in relation to the United States is that neither country can defeat the other in a direct conflict, but that the American forward positions, particularly in Germany and Turkey, can, because of the development of the rocket, no longer be defended. He feels, therefore, that American policy rests on an obsolete estimate of the existing balance of power.

After he had talked about the status quo, and about no changes of frontiers by force, and about the need of mutual consent in the German question, I asked him whether he would agree to free negotiations between the two Germanys and whether, as one of the four occupying powers, he would accept an agreement negotiated by the two Germanys themselves.

'More Normal'

To this he replied quickly—too quickly as it developed—that he would agree to this, and that it would be best if the troops of the occupying powers were withdrawn before the negotiations were concluded. This would bring about "more normal condition".

I was not convinced that he had meant what he had said, perhaps because he had not fully understood what a Westerner would mean when he talks about free negotiations between the two Germanys. So I asked him whether he really meant that the occupying powers would accept unconditionally the result of negotiations between the two Germanys.

To this he replied that the occupying powers would, "of course," abide by the Potsdam Agreement which states, he said, that Germany should never again be in a position to disturb the peace. He left me with the reasonable certainty that if the Western powers proposed a free negotiation by the two Germanys, the Soviet Government would not be willing to accept it.

Everyone has heard the joke, which one person asks: "What has Mr. Smith been telling you for the last hour?" And the answer: "I don't know she didn't say."

AN EAR FOR A TONGUE

Parlez Vous English, Huh?

A MONTREAL publisher says that within fifteen years Canada may be completely bilingual. That's a pretty optimistic estimate. I seem to have been hearing the same sort of prediction all my life; but far from becoming bilingual, this country today is barely even lingual.

Listen to the language you hear on the streets, in the buses or even in your own home. Hi! Huh? Yep. Yah. Yeah. Uh-huh. Nah! What tongue is it? French? English? Neither would claim it, and small wonder.

I don't know whether French Canadians torture their language in the same way that we English Canadians murder ours. But if they do, we both have a long way to go before we can even start to become bilingual.

For thousands of Canadian children in school today, the study of English is in reality the study of a foreign language. They use it only in grammatical exercises, never amongst themselves, in their homes or elsewhere.

Aint, cantcha, dinctcha, gonna, git-tin, sockum, we gotter beat. Is this the language to which we will add French to make a bi-lingual nation?

The Montreal enthusiast, supporting his contention, points out that even today, if a father wants his son to grow up to become prime minister, he must teach him both French and English. Ah yes, but he must teach him many other languages as well.

With Many Tongues

The aspiring statesman must learn the language of diplomacy, the language of the hustings, the language of public relations, the language of the back-room boys. He must learn the language in which money talks—and when not to listen to it. He must speak the language of the streets, the language of the people, the language of society.

Above all, he must master that language which says one thing but means something a little different, hiding the meaning rather than conveying it; the language that permits him to use the same words on two different groups of people and achieve opposite effects. It is a language in which high may mean low, increase may mean decrease, up may mean down, and one thing may mean another but not necessarily always.

However, such an accomplishment is beyond the ability of the crowd. We can only hope to learn a little of such a language—just enough to give us a hint of what the speaker really means apart from what he said.

Language, of course, can hide meaning as well as disclose it. In fact, making language say what you want to say is a very difficult job; all too often the words muffle the meaning and hide the very point you are trying to make.

John Moon

Everyone has heard the joke, which one person asks: "What has Mr. Smith been telling you for the last hour?" And the answer: "I don't know she didn't say."

The greatest bar to Canadian becoming bilingual, of course, is that hardly any of us need to be. A language lives by use, and there is a limit to how alive it can be kept merely by reading to oneself. To be proficient you must speak it fairly often, yet even if such a city as Montreal there is comparatively little bi-lingualism.

There are some residents who have mastered both tongues. There are many more who can speak their own language and a few words of the other. But for most of them, particularly the English Canadians, such a use is only for extreme emergency and certainly not from preference. Shyness may be the chief cause of this, but it is certainly an effective one.

The same principle governs the use of a single language. The greatest deterrent to English Canadians speaking English correctly is that hardly any of us need it. We can get along quite well speaking the hi-huh-gonna-yeah-patois.

Murderers All

For every person who has achieved success in life by perfecting the use of his language, there is another who has won fame through his ability to murder it. Popular song authors, advertising writers, stage entertainers—many of these have marched to prosperity over the mangled remains of their native tongue.

Teachers of Basic English claim they can give a foreigner a vocabulary of 800 words that will be sufficient to get him through a normal day's work and play. Regarding which the average Canadian would comment: "What'd need eight hundred words fer?"

It will be widely agreed naturally that bilingualism would be a great thing for Canada. It would enrich our lives, lead to greater national unity, widen our views and confer a dozen other benefits. We should all look forward to the day when each of us shall have learned two languages. And the first step towards this will be to learn one.

MARKED for READING IMMORTAL HOURS

Arcady, I'm sure, isn't so much place as a time of life, when none doesn't concern us, love doesn't worry us, and death doesn't trouble us because we think ourselves immortal.

DENNIS THE MENACE

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK

By RUTH ENKE

The Windy Sky

"TIME for your back rub," the young nurse said briskly.

So Mrs. Brown eased herself on to her side, and lay looking out of the window while the nurse rubbed with more energy than skill.

"There now," said the nurse, giving her seat a friendly smack as a booster for morale, "that feel better, dear?"

"Yes, thank you," said Mrs. Brown, and dragged her mind back to the familiar routine of the women's ward.

The view from the window was what had saved her; she reflected, and, in the past five weeks, she'd come to know every detail of that view as well—the slender church spire among the thinning autumn trees, a tall brick chimney to the left, and, between trees and chimney, a glimpse of the western sky.

"It's a windy sky today," she murmured to herself, and the words "windy sky" took her miles and years away to the time when her children were young.

They lived on the prairie then, and life had been hard because of the depression.

But, looking back, she couldn't remember the hard times as clearly as the happy times, and among the happy ones, some of the best were when she'd taken the children out beyond the limits of the town so they could fly their home-made kites.

They'd walked, always, because it was only a matter of a mile or two. Often, she'd taken some of the neighbors' children as well. Always, or so it seemed, there'd been a baby in the buggy.

She remembered, vividly, a day of sun and wind when the big kite had flown especially well, dipping, soaring, soaring until they'd paid out the very last length of string.

Now, closing her eyes, she could almost see the children running across the flat open land.

She could almost see them, rosy, excited, tousel but not tired, as they came back to where she'd stayed with the baby in the buggy.

For once, no one had quarreled about who should hold the string. Everyone was happy.

"Hungry?" she'd asked, and then she'd produced the "surprise" she'd hidden in the buggy.

It was only a bag of the ginger snaps she'd baked that morning, only a few candies which one of the neighbors had slipped into the buggy unseen. But, somehow, they'd had a festive air.

The diamond-shaped brown paper kite with its long fluttering tail, the big black buggy that she'd bought second-hand and used for all her babies, the children walking more slowly on the homeward way—all for the moment, seemed more real than her surroundings in the ward.

"You didn't have any visitors this afternoon," said the woman in the bed next hers.

"Only the children," said Mrs. Brown, smiling a little at the fancy, and not bothering to explain.

"She's nuts," the woman whispered later to her own visiting husband. "Doesn't know where she is, half the time."

LONDON LETTER

Airport Parades Irk Queen

LONDON—You've seen newsreel shots of the Queen setting out from or returning to London Airport.

It's quite a performance—the red carpet laid out, a/crew lined up for review, salutes, handshakes with airport and government officials, and handwaving acknowledged to the crowd.

But has it occurred to you how often you've seen this minor spectacle?

Fact of the matter is that the Queen can't move anywhere by air without all this rigmarole being gone through.

And she finds it tedious. Very air-minded, she would like to use aircraft much more, especially for such things as avoiding the long train journey going by air to Balmoral for a weekend's relaxation.

But it's no secret now that she prefers to face the ordeal of these airport ceremonies unless it is for a major flight.

For the Queen there is no such thing as just getting on a plane and going somewhere. If she travels by train there is nothing like the same ritual.

Have you ever seen her shaking hands

Free Hand To Assess Tax Urged

WINNIPEG (CP)—A radical change in Canada's income tax law that would permit business men to determine deductible expenses by any accounting method they thought reasonable was suggested Saturday by an economic expert.

Prof. W. G. Leonard of the Queen's University school of commerce, Kingston, Ont., said the federal revenue department now tells businessmen what accounting methods they may use, basing decisions on the letter of the Income Tax Act. This system often proved unreasonable in dealing with individual circumstances.

Prof. Leonard made the proposal during a closed panel session of the Canadian Tax Foundation's annual conference here. The three-day conference, attended by some 400 lawyers, chartered accountants and other fiscal experts, ended Saturday.

E. B. Fairbanks, Montreal lawyer and chairman of the panel, reviewed its proceedings after the session ended.

Under Prof. Leonard's proposal a special board of accounting authorities would be established to determine whether individual accounting methods were reasonable in cases of dispute. He said these experts would be better qualified than a regular court judge to judge accounting matters.

His stand was attacked by Prof. F. E. LaBrie of the University of Toronto law school on grounds it was untried. The present system, while perhaps not the best possible, worked quite well in practice.

Mr. Fairbanks said he personally was "not a bit in favor" of the proposed change.

Several other panel discussions completed the conference program.

In one dealing with taxes in the petroleum industry, S. E. Ewens of Imperial Oil Ltd., Toronto, said the federal government should increase tax considerations offered gas and oil companies as incentive to develop Canada's petroleum resources.

POWER FOR INDUSTRY—A huge hydro project which will eventually provide 1,000,000 horsepower in electricity for Aluminim Company of Canada smelters in the Lake-St. John district of Quebec is expected to be in operation next summer. Sketch shows how rushing rivers as much as 300 miles north of Quebec City are being harnessed in a $150,000,000 project that began two years ago.

The project involved damming the wild Peribonka River, digging a 34-foot tunnel six and a half miles through solid rock and feeding the water through five generators. (CP Newsmap.)

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most prices were firm in moderately active trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Trade reports indicated a number of parcels of barley with the total equivalent of one cargo were purchased for the United Kingdom. Japan was named as the destination for small quantities of flax.

Oats business was mainly domestic with shippers credited with buying. Rye trading was quiet.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included: West Germany 355,000 bushels; Belgium 230,000; United Kingdom 215,000, and Norway 145,000.

JANUARY 31 SELECTED FOR PORCHLIGHT BLITZ

Greater Victoria mothers, 3,000 strong, on January 31 will stage the sixth annual "porchlight blitz" for funds to help rehabilitate polio victims.

The one-hour blitz will mark the end of a month-long campaign to raise money throughout B.C. The drive here will be sponsored by the Vic Van Isle Kinsmen Club. The money will be administered by the B.C. Foundation for Child Care, Poliomyelitis and Rehabilitation.

In recent years the foundation has broadened to include care of children suffering from deafness, heart diseases and other illnesses.

Negligent Officer Loses Ship Command

Dismissal from command of his ship, HMCS Beacon Hill, was punishment handed out to Lt.-Cmdr. Paul F. Wilson, Montreal and Victoria, by a general court martial Saturday Aug. 23.

After four days of hearings in HMCS Naden, the five-man board decided Lt.-Cmdr. Wilson was guilty of negligence on two counts in connection with the grounding of the frigate, in Vancouver harbor.

DIME DONATIONS

The fund was collected from school children throughout the province, mostly a dime at a time. It is intended as a Thanksgiving gift to other youngsters less fortunate than themselves.

There will be special centennial programs in all B.C. schools Tuesday, highlighted by special schools radio broadcasts, including an address by Governor-General Vincent Massey.

The ceremonies, and a holiday being observed by schools on Wednesday, will mark observance of Douglas Day Nov. 19, 1858, exactly 100 years ago when the mainland colony was created as a self-governing unit of the Empire, under the name British Columbia.

Special ceremonies will take place at Fort Langley commemorating the original reading of the proclamation there by the first governor, Sir James Douglas.

PRESTON, Conn. (AP) — A nine-day search for a frail 11-year-old girl ended Sunday when her body was discovered among some tree branches in a small cove about 1,000 feet from her grandmother's home. Police said Diana Duffy apparently tumbled off a railroad trestle and into the cove after wandering away from her grandmother's home.

The funds are to be used for purchase of library books and for recreational facilities in the two children's hospitals.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson and centennial chairman for B.C., L. J. Wallace, will officiate at the Vancouver ceremonies. Municipal Affairs Minister Weslie Black and deputy minister of education Dr. J. F. K. English will attend.

Student representatives on the centennial subcommittee, under Dr. English, which set up the gift fund, will also take part at both centres.

Methods Were Different But Results the Same

TIME OUT! by JEFF KEATE

Tils Clinch Verdict in Hurry; Heaneys Win in Final Minute

Tillicums and Heaneys employed different systems, but the result was the same.

Both chalked up victories Sunday to climb higher Football League standings.

Tillicums threw a deluge of leather at the Ladysmith goal in the opening exchanges at Topaz Avenue Park and all but saluted a triumph away as they hammered out a 4-0 lead in the first 10 minutes. Ladysmith held its own the rest of the way but wound up on the short end of a 5-1 count.

CRISP GETS WINNER

Heaneys broke a deadlock with Butler Brothers in the final minute at Central Park, taking over second place in the 10-team loop as they edged Butlers, 32, on Nelson Crisp's tally.

It's Up to Reds To Stop Oarsmen

It looks as if it's up to Oak Bay Reds if any club is going to stop JBAAs' undefeated romp through the Victoria Rugby Union season.

The Oarsmen racked up their sixth successive victory and their second against Oak Bay Whites Saturday as they made an early lead stand up for a 19-16 victory at Macdonald Park.

Reds, whose record is marred only by a draw with the Whites, meet the JBAAs crew for the first time this season at Macdonald Park next weekend. They warmed up for the clash Saturday by trimming Victoria College, 15-9.

DEVASTATING ATTACK

JBAAs turned loose a devastating backfield attack in the opening minutes against the Whites and scampered to a 13-0 lead in the first 13 minutes.

It was 16-0 at the half, and although Whites mounted a strong rally in the second half they never threatened to pull out a victory.

Charlie Bishop, Harry Millard, Vic Stodel, Harry Turner and Phil Myers each scored a try for the Oarsmen, and Gary Pynn booted two converts.

Rob Wilson, on a penalty kick, Don Burgess, with a try and convert, and Dick Ellis, with a try, scored for Whites.

CADET TEAMS TIE

Royal Roads and HMCS Vernon broke even in their fifth annual battle for the Hibbard Trophy, playing to a scoreless tie in a hard-hitting match at Royal Roads.

Each team has won the trophy twice and will hold it for six months this time.

Norfolk House Takes Trophy

One portion of Victoria's "bit of Old England" was in evidence at Oak Bay High School Saturday as almost 150 grass-hockey players on 10 teams competed in the annual women's round-robin tournament for the Bridgeman Cup.

Liberally equipped with shooting sticks and overseas accents, spectators endured Saturday's icy winds for six hours to watch the clubs battle through 20 games to determine a new champion.

Winner of the tourney and the cup was Norfolk House, a private girls' school which gained a berth in the two-team

Marines Explode Bubble

NEW YORK (AP) — The bubble burst Saturday and Rutgers came floating back to earth, losing to Quantico Marines after eight consecutive victories.

The score was 13-12. But there was a mitigating circumstance. Rutgers was deprived of the services of its ace back, Bill Austin, out with a leg injury.

The demise of Rutgers left Louisiana State as the only major unbeaten, untied team in the country. LSU, No. 1 in the Associated Press poll, defeated Mississippi State 7-6 on fullback Tommy Davis' third-quarter conversion, in a Southeastern Conference game.

The undefeated but tied list also was trimmed by one, but it really didn't have too much significance. Iowa, ranked No. 2 behind LSU, came a cropper at the hands of Ohio State, 38-28.

But the Hawkeyes already have clinched the Big Ten's Rose Bowl berth, so it was only natural that they'd relax somewhat.

The other members of the undefeated but tied club came through unscathed.

Army, No. 3, trounced Villanova 26-0; Auburn, No. 4, showed more than usual power in defeating Georgia 21-6, and the Air Force Academy, No. 10, downed Wyoming, 21-6.

California moved a step closer to the Rose Bowl with a 12-7 conquest of Washington.

Senators, Royals Register Shutouts

Senators and Royals racked up shutout victories in the pee-wee division of the Victoria Minor Hockey Association at Memorial Arena Saturday.

Don McNeil took care of all the scoring as Senators turned back Capitals, 3-0. Don Robinson, Terry Carr and Mike Smethurst shared scoring honors as Royals tripped Flyers by a similar count.

In the third pee-wee tussle, Maroons beat Bombers, 2-1, on tallies by Paul Williams and Dennis Farrell. Bombers' lone counter came from the stick of Doug Dewdney.

Youthful Kegler New Alley Champ

Youth had its day Saturday at Capital City bowling alleys when 15-year-old Bill Atkinson ripped out a 762 triple to dethrone Reg Waggoner in the weekly "championship bowling" series.

In second place, Waggoner rolled 712 while Emil Liska, with 697, and Harry Smith, 599, were next.

In the fivepin eliminations Smith took high honors with an 805 series, followed by Liska, at 782, and the new champion at 725.

Waggoner Wins Esquimalt Title

Defending titlist Daryl Prezeau ran into a bad fourth game Sunday in the Esquimalt Bowldrome's "Parade of Champions," and Reg Waggoner boomed into the gap to capture the fourth weekly ten-pin bowling crown.

Rolling to a 278 average, Waggoner tallied 1,112, including a single of 371.

Ranked behind Waggoner, in close order, were J. LeBlanc, 1,062; Jim Gallant, 1,058; Geoff Worrall, 1,057, and Harry Smith, 1,052.

NEVER SAY DIE . . .

HALIFAX (CP) — It doesn't pay to give up.

The Bruins of the Halifax Bantam Hockey League defeated the Maroons, 13-0 Saturday. It was their first win since joining the league three years ago.

$600,000 Reduction In Saanich Sewer Plan

Cost of the proposed Saanich sewer project will drop from $2,300,000 to $1,700,000 as the result of a provincial health department concession, according to Reeve George Chatterton.

The reeve said Saanich will save $600,000 due to a government decision to allow the municipality to eliminate a sewer treatment plant, one of the most expensive items in the project.

The sewer money bylaw will be put to the ratepayers in the Cadboro Bay-Ruby-Shelbourne Road areas in December.

The sewer money bylaw will be put to the ratepayers in the Cadboro Bay-Ruby-Shelbourne Road areas in December.

The reeve said there may be further reduction in costs if the government permits Saanich to repay its sewer loan over a period of 30 years instead of 25 years.

Apart from capital costs, the annual costs to maintain the plant would have been high," said the reeve.

Cost of the project may even be further reduced if there was no serious inflation, he added.

'Flaming Youth'
Author, Samuel
Adams, Dies

BEAUFORT, S.C. (AP) — Samuel Hopkins Adams, author and journalist, died early Sunday at his winter home here after a long illness. He was 87.

Adams began his career as Hamilton College correspondent for the New York Tribune when he was 16.

A profound love of his craft was among his most marked qualities.

NO USE FOR PITY

The author, newspaperman and magazine writer once remarked of writers who complained their work was difficult:

"Certainly writing is work. Hard work. But so is any craft . . . but painful? For a writer to pity himself—to indicate that writing is painful—is hypocritical."

Motion pictures were made from 17 of his novels. They included "Flaming Youth," a best seller of the time, which was written under the pseudonym Werner Fabian, as were several of his other works.

From 1891-1900 Adams was a reporter and special writer for the New York Sun. He was managing editor of McClure's Syndicate during 1900 and 1901.

MEN WHO MUST GET STARTED RELY ON Exide

A few years ago only Mounties and Eskimos made the Timberline in Winter. Today in the Northland's vast, ore rich country, men live and work the year 'round. Motors have replaced huskies as the means of transportation and Exide Batteries have replaced the whip that furnished the starting power.

An Exide Battery is more powerful than a team of Huskies. 70 years of continuous research in all climates have gone into making an Exide the most dependable battery on earth! When men possibly trust their lives to an Exide, what better recommendation could you have? Buy an Exide today.

THE PETER TOWNSEND STORY—FINAL CHAPTER

Will Fairy Story End Happily?

By NORMAN BARRYMAINE
(Copyright By Peter Davies Ltd.)

THE EPILOGUE, JULY, 1958

On Thursday afternoon when Peter spoke to the Princess on the telephone a few minutes before 4 o'clock to ensure that the gates were open so that he could drive in without being photographed, he was astonished to learn that the visit was "off." The Princess told him that she felt that it would be wiser not to meet again until the Queen returned to London. That night he sent her four dozen red roses.

The next day as a sad-eyed Princess, wearing one of Peter's roses, flew off to Germany on a two-day visit, I was driving Peter across the south of England to his sister, Stephenie Townsend.

"As and the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh boarded the Royal yacht Britannia for Britain, Commander Richard Colville, the Queen's press secretary, refused to discuss the reunion between the beautiful Princess and the Battle of Britain hero. He described the meeting as 'no mystery.'

Queen Irked

"A pensive Queen Elizabeth tonight ended her three-day state visit to Holland—a visit suddenly overshadowed by Princess Margaret's tea-party meeting with Group Captain Peter Townsend.

"And as the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh boarded the Royal yacht Britannia for Britain, Commander Richard Colville, the Queen's press secretary, refused to discuss the reunion between the beautiful Princess and the Battle of Britain hero. He described the meeting as 'no mystery.'

From The Hague, the American Associated Press Correspondent had cabled a story which was reprinted the next day as a lead item by the London Daily Express.

delivered the boys safely back to their mother near Sevenoaks in Kent he joined me in Sussex.

I said I thought the most favorable place for him to live was with his mother in Somerset. He had his book to write, which would take him six months.

Off to Mother

So a day or so later he went off to his mother. From Somerset he had talks on the telephone with the Princess after her homecoming and she invited him to lunch with her and friends on Sunday at Royal Lodge, Windsor Park. This he did—without any news-paper's knowing it.

After lunch he went back to Somerset.

A week went by without another meeting being arranged. The couple then decided to try it at Clarence House and see if it could take place without publicity. It was arranged for 6 o'clock on Monday.

But once again the news leaked out. All the newspapers printed big stories on the following morning.

Fleet Street was now fully alerted, and Peter began to have doubts about the wisdom of remaining in England. As he bluntly put it: "They will never leave me alone. I cannot write under such conditions."

That he and the Princess wanted to continue their friendship there is no doubt. If they discussed marriage they could obviously reach no definite conclusions.

New Pressures

The publicity in the newspapers that morning had aroused all the same reactions as before in the Court. During the day new pressures were brought to bear on Margaret.

In the Tribune de Geneve, an important Continental newspaper, there was a story even more embarrassing to the Palace. This newspaper's London correspondent stated: "An engagement may be announced soon." And then went on:

"Everything looks as if it was intended to prepare the general public for the announcement.

"It is also understood that Queen Elizabeth no longer has any objection . . ."

It is a tradition of Buckingham Palace not to deny newspaper reports. But, as I have said, the Princess was already under great pressure. This story, published in Switzerland and cabled back to London, provided the Palace with an excuse to act.

They travelled to England on Sunday, and after Peter had tea with the Queen.

Peter, back in Brussels, waited a few days for his sons, Giles and Hugo, to join him for their Easter holidays. They went off to Spain for two weeks, had a wonderful time free from press inquisitiveness.

They travelled to England on Sunday, and after Peter had tea with the Queen.

At midday on Wednesday, the Queen drove across from Buckingham Palace to Clarence House to see her sister. Princess Margaret did not resist her sister's proposal that an official denial—an unprecedented act—be made of the Tribune de Geneve story. That evening the following statement was issued from Buckingham Palace:

"The Press Secretary to the Queen is authorized to say that the report in the Tribune de Geneve concerning a possible engagement between Princess Margaret and Group Captain Peter Townsend is entirely untrue."

"Her Royal Highness' statement of 1955 remains unaltered."

This statement did not say that the friendship was at an end. Nor did it entirely rule out the possibility of marriage at a future date.

My belief is that Princess

Margaret would still like to marry Peter Townsend. And it would seem that while there is hope the couple are prepared to wait.

Before the statement was issued from Buckingham Palace the Princess telephoned the text to Peter, who was then back in Somerset with his mother. He agreed that it was in their best interests that it should be issued. But he felt more strongly than ever that it would be better for them both if he went back to the Continent to write his book. The Princess could only agree.

The reader, quite naturally, will ask: what of the future? This much I can say: they would like to marry, but at the moment the religious and political issues remain insurmountable.

For the present I think that the Princess and Townsend are only anxious that their love and friendship should be established in such a way that it is accepted by the Court, the Church, Parliament and the Public. This can be achieved only by the people becoming accustomed to the idea slowly.

The story of Princess Margaret and Peter Townsend is not yet ended. In fairy stories the gallant knight slays the dragon, rescues the Princess, marries her, and they live happily ever after.

TEN-MILE POINT SUGGESTED SITE

Botanical Garden Proposed

Establishment of a 40-acre botanical garden in the vicinity of Ten-Mile Point area has been proposed here by horticulturalist A. J. B. Randy, 3318 Oak Street.

"Here on Vancouver Island we enjoy the best climatic conditions found in the whole of Canada, and these advantages are particularly evident close to our city in the Ten-Mile Point area," he suggests.

There are areas on the west coast that are suitable, but for the benefit of studies a botanical garden should be close to Victoria College."

Mr. Randy suggested firms and individuals who donate to Victoria College or the University of B.C. earmark donations for a particular purpose in such a garden.

"Once started, the botanical garden would pay for its upkeep and make a return far exceeding the original outlay. The garden would be a place of perpetual beauty."

Another purpose of the garden would be to afford more than superficial study of forest maintenance "if we wish to preserve our forests in perpetuity," Mr. Randy says.

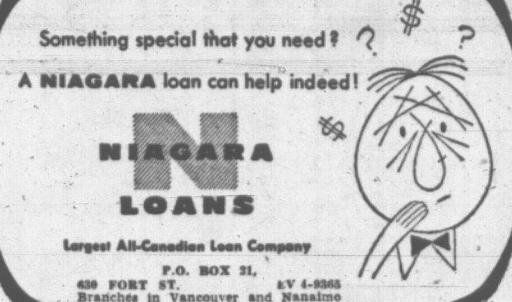

"Our government has planned for conservation, reforestation, and forest nurseries, which is the logical place where forest science can be intensively studied to the best advantage to serve our territories.

"Until the day that a botanical garden is a reality, I aim to carry out some work with divers plants to determine their suitability to our land. I aim to do this personally, but my circumstances are very moderate and very likely, sooner or later, I shall find the study beyond my limited circumstances."

14 Victoria Daily Times
MONDAY, NOV. 17, 1958

An end was expected today to the long-simmering contract dispute between B.C.'s four major shipyards and 2,600 workers.

A meeting of company and union officials with conciliator Reginald Clements of the provincial labor department began in Vancouver at 10 a.m. and was due to resume at 3 p.m.

It will probably turn up a formula that will be acceptable to representatives of 26 unions involved when the negotiating committee meets later today.

Crescent will be escorted from a point six miles north of Discovery Island by the five other destroyers of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron. The ships will steam down Juan de Fuca Strait at a speed of 25 knots.

The squadron will be in an operational screen formation, exactly the same as that used in certain phases of anti-submarine activities.

Crescent will be in the centre of the formation with HMCS Cayuga to starboard and HMCS Athabaskan to port.

In the first line of the screen formation will be HMCS Fraser with HMCS Margaret to starboard and HMCS Skeena to port.

VANTAGE POINTS

Vantage points from which the public can see the arrival stretch all along the Dallas Road and Beach Drive waterfront with possibly the best view from Clover Point.

The five escorting warships will "peel off" near Ogden Point while Crescent will steam into the Inner Harbor and berth at the Black Ball ferry dock.

About 15 minutes later she will rejoin the five other ships in the Royal Roads area and proceed with them into Esquimalt harbor.

The exercise will be the last in which the present components of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron will take part as a unit.

Crescent Cayuga and Athabaskan are being transferred to the east coast and replaced by St. Laurent class destroyer escorts.

'HEDDA' IS HERE

Drama Head Rings Bell With Cloche

By TONY DICKASON

Canada's Hedda Hopper of Hats is visiting Victoria today. She is Mrs. D. W. (Pauline) McGibbon of Toronto, president of the Dominion Drama Festival.

Women, literally "breathe down my neck," she said, in an effort to receive one of her tailored creations.

"I don't actually have many hats. Most of them go as gifts."

Mrs. McGibbon lighted up one corner of the Empress Hotel coffee shop this morning under a severe black cloche creation trimmed with feathers of a violent scarlet.

DEVASTATING

She prefers hats with white feathers for afternoon wear. They're, to say the least, devastating.

But as a clubwoman of considerable importance on the national scene—Mrs. McGibbon is careful in choosing hat styles to wear while addressing audiences.

"You have to be sure there is nothing that dangles, or bobs, when you are talking. Otherwise the audience gets its eyes on the dangly bit, and follows it with head movements."

This, to a speaker, is disconcerting, she affirmed.

She has three hats with her this trip.

Mrs. McGibbon, apart from her drama work, is national educational secretary of the IODE which has 32,000 members in Canada.

The IODE awarded more than $250,000 last year in grants, fellowships and scholarships," she nodded.

She is here to attend the annual meeting of the governing committee of the Canadian Drama Award to be held to-night.

TRAINING GROUND

The Dominion Drama Festival—to be held in Vancouver in 1960—is "the training ground for professionals," she said.

Too many drama groups are "loath to take a chance" on Canadian-written plays, as proven money-getters are preferred from the box-office viewpoint, she said. However, French-speaking writers and players were leading the way in Canada with unique native stage presentations.

And what about the "hangars on" in drama groups, who have no acting ability?

"We try to channel their activity. Like painting scenery."

Cyclist Injured

A teen-aged cyclist in collision with a car outside 644 Ralph was taken unconscious to St. Joseph's Hospital at 12.10 p.m. today.

The hospital reported the boy, about 14, regained consciousness shortly after and appeared to be in favorable condition.

Saanich police said the victim had head and back injuries and at press time were still investigating the accident.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Can you please oblige me with the address to write for an application for veterans houses for married couples?—E.W.

A. Write J. S. Adam, assistant administrator, Dept. of Veterans' Affairs, 805 Government Street, Victoria. He will pass your query along to the department section which in turn will be able to answer all your questions.

Q. How did the White House in Washington D.C. get its name?—C.G.

A. In 1814 the British burned public buildings. The president's residence was scarred by flames and was painted over with white paint. The name "White House" stuck.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions must be brief and to the point. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not guarantee to publish every question. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. For instance, narcissus bulbs (fancy quality) are selling at 80 cents a dozen. Top quality golden daffodils that will be admired by all who pass your garden, are 39 cents a dozen. Any smart gardener will know that Ingoldsby yellow tulips at 49 cents a dozen or $3.50 a hundred are indeed a bargain. Completing the list of "buys" in plants, there are double French lilac bushes at $1.95 each.

Eskimo Women's Place in Home Changing Fast

The one hectic existence of the Eskimo woman is giving place to a life that includes leisure, says an officer of the northern affairs department's information branch.

Mrs. Irene Baird told a women's group here that with fairly modern homes and time-saving equipment, women in the Arctic are beginning to face the problem of leisure time.

The Eskimo woman's place in the home is also changing, she said.

In the past, "life was so densely crowded up against the immediate moment that she had no time to feel idle, lonely, confused or frustrated."

The ancestral pattern of Eskimo life made each member of a family essential to each other. But schools, hospitals and organized communities had changed that pattern. "Such periods of social change are harder on women than men. Men move out into the new ways because they must; they have the incentive of the wage earner."

Such changes had taken place in a very few years, she said.

On Etiquette

ROUND ABOUT INVITATION

A close friend of mine, Mrs. B., had house guests. She invited me and my sister to come "for a sandwich" on Sunday evening. In the meantime, they were at our house for dinner, at which time Mrs. B. told us that Mrs. A. would like us all to come to her house for dessert after the sandwich. We don't know Mrs. A. very well and felt that she should have invited us herself. We therefore declined Mrs. A.'s round-about invitation for dessert. This caused a great deal of unpleasantness for all concerned. Should we have gone to Mrs. A.'s regardless of the second-hand invitation?

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS:

Granted that it would have been a little nicer and more hospitable had Mrs. A. phoned you to drop around for dessert after Mrs. B.'s sandwich, I think that the issue was too insignificant to take such offense by declining and that you should have been good sports by going. After all, Mrs. B.'s sandwich invitation and party was very casual and informal. You could have put your pride in your pocket and reversed the "rule" by phoning Mrs. A. to thank her for the invitation and to tell her you would love to come for her dessert. If Mrs. A. had been giving a dinner party, I am sure she would have invited you in person.

Mission of the Lepers, Ladies' Parlor, Metropolitan United Church, Wednesday at 2 p.m. Speaker, Miss G. L. Amment, deputation secretary for British Columbia. She will show a color movie film. Tea will be served. Anyone interested may attend.

Ease Puffy Eyes With Daily Care

The circles and puffiness which detract from eye beauty are real problems to many women. They can, of course, be concealed by make-up, to a degree.

To some extent, both seem to be hereditary and both seem to become more noticeable with the passing years. The reason for this, of course, is that the skin becomes looser around the eyes.

While surgery can sometimes be used to remove the puffiness, this is a method most women will not contemplate. But there are two very practical things to be done about dark circles and puffiness: enough sleep and a tender creaming of that thin

TODAY'S RECIPE

GLAZED APPLE CAKE

Four tablespoons butter, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup light brown sugar, about 3 peeled apples, sliced, nuts and spices, 3 eggs, 1 cup granulated sugar, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoons vanilla, $\frac{1}{2}$ cups sifted cake flour, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon baking powder, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt.

Melt butter in 9-inch square pan, sprinkle with brown sugar. Over this arrange apples in overlapping slices. Sprinkle with little lemon juice and if desired, cinnamon or nutmeg. Decorate with whole walnuts or pecans.

Beat eggs until thick and lemon colored, about 5 minutes on electric mixer. Gradually beat in sugar. Add milk and vanilla, beat just until blended. Add sifted flour, baking powder and salt all at once. With spoon, beat just until smooth.

Pour over apple topping. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) about 50 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes, loosen edges and turn out on warm plate. Serve warm with whipped cream. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

SOFT DRAPE

The ability of wool fabrics to drape softly and beautifully is evident in this cocktail dress. Note the popular high waistline and fullness starting from under the ribbon belt. Designer is Christian Dior. (CP Photo.)

DEAR ABBY: You asked teen-agers to write in and tell you why they don't bring their friends home. I don't bring my friends home because my parents forbid me to have company in the house unless one of them is home.

ANOTHER TEEN-AGER

DEAR ABBY: I quit bringing kids over because there is so much stuff in our house that can get broke nobody can even turn around. A friend of mine once accidentally turned over an end table and broke a lamp and I never heard the last of it. The gang would rather go to somebody's house where nobody will chew us out in case something gets wrecked. KINDA FRISKY

DEAR ABBY: If you never knew when you were going to walk into your house and find your mother and father roaring drunk, would you be dumb enough to bring somebody home with you?

DEAR ABBY: I am not quite 13 but if you want to know why I don't have kids to my house it is because we don't have anything to entertain them with. My parents don't believe in Rock 'n' Roll so I can't have any records except classics. I can't turn on the TV unless they know what I am going to look at. They examine all the magazines my friends carry and if there are any comics that have bad language or indecent pictures, they make them leave them outside. Now what kid is going to be so foolish as to want to come to MY house? IN PRISON

DEAR ABBY: I don't bring

ALL 5 SEATS VACANT FOR LADYSMITH VOTE

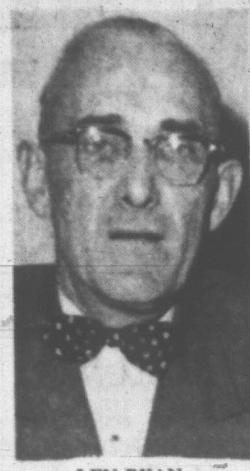

LADYSMITH — The entire village commission, brought into being on an interim basis a year ago when Ladysmith reverted from city to village status, will be up for election this year.

Electors will choose a chairman, to serve two years; two commissioners for two-year terms, and two commissioners for one-year terms.

To date only the commission chairman, Len Ryan, has indicated he will seek re-election.

Commissioner William Sanderson is expected to run, but has not specified whether he will campaign for a one-year or two-year term.

There are 938 names on the voters' list, an increase of 16 in the past year.

Wife Found Guilty Of Attacking Hubby

SIDNEY — Mrs. Elizabeth Colt Morey, 41, found guilty in police court here of assaulting her estranged husband, was given a six-month suspended sentence Saturday on her own surety of $500.

Albert Stansfield, an unemployed heating mechanic, was found guilty of the same charge.

Victim of the assault, Harold William Morey, 72, retired Royal Navy captain, had difficulty in walking to the witness stand.

Man Hurdled Guard Rail Inquest Told

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP) — A coroner's jury Saturday returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of a 20-year-old employee at the Elk Falls paper mill here who died Thursday when dragged into a fast-moving roll of paper.

The jury was told that Lloyd A. Beninger was killed when he attempted to remove a torn piece of paper from the roll as it revolved at 500 feet a minute.

Dr. A. J. Hancock said Beninger suffered a fractured skull and multiple injuries when he was drawn into the roll.

HEARD THUMP
Tom Hamilton, a tour-boss at the plant, said he heard a thump.

The machine was stopped and a partly wound paper roll was pried off a spindle to release the dead man.

Kenneth Main, who was working with Beninger, said he saw Beninger jump over a guard rail, apparently to extract a piece of loose paper from the roll.

Alberni Edged By Seattle Club

Alberni Athletics were edged 73-69 by the Seattle Kirkas at Alberni, and University of British Columbia Jayvees were beaten 86-58 by Vancouver Eilers at UBC in two senior "A" men's exhibition basketball clashes at the weekend.

Top Seattle sniper was Russ Taylor, with 20 points, as against 17 by Athletics' Doug Brinham.

In Vancouver, Eilers were paced by Ed Malecki with 19 points, and the Jayvees by Doug Jennings with 15.

TRAFFIC FINES
In Colwood RCMP court Friday:

William Alex Rosemus, Langford, $25 and $5.50 costs for driving with inadequate muffer.

John Ernest Marsh, $25 and $3 costs for following another vehicle too closely.

Valerie Ida Sharp, Victoria, $35 and $3 costs; David Walter MacDonald, $25 and $3 costs; Lawrence Patrick George, $25 and $8 costs, and George Gillette, $25 and $3 costs, for careless driving.

Opening Fete Saturday For Multi-Purpose Building

UCLUELET — Official opening of the Lyche building, erected as a joint public service and centennial project, will take place Saturday with visitors present from Tofino, Long Beach, Kennedy Lake, Port Albion, and other communities.

It will house municipal offices, the public library, two public health offices, dispensary, surgical examination room, waiting room, and doctors' offices.

The building, which measures 38 by 42 feet, is named for the pioneer resident who donated its site for public purposes.

It will be opened by Mrs. Kate Karns, 90, a resident of Ucluelet since 1910.

Teachers Again Going To Arbitration

NANAIMO — Contract negotiations between the Nanaimo School Board and Nanaimo District Teachers' Association have broken down, and will be taken to arbitration for the second successive year.

Conciliation efforts also have failed in Ladysmith, where the teachers and the school board will have wage schedules arbitrated.

Nanaimo teachers are asking a 10 per cent wage boost, and the Ladysmith teachers want a 9.7 per cent increase.

I was a bundle of nerves

My nerves were that bad the least little thing set me off. I was irritable, tense, easily depressed, and I slept badly. And as if that wasn't enough, I'd get indigestion.

Many people experience unpleasant feelings because their systems are disturbed by ingredients present in everyday beverages. While some people can drink tea, coffee, cocoa and some soft drinks without harm, others cannot.

Postum contains no tannin to interfere with digestion; no caffeine, theophylline and theobromine which can cause nervousness, sleeplessness, irritability, palpitations, rapid pulse, followed by depression.

There is no need to endure any of these unpleasant feelings. Switch to Instant Postum which is guaranteed to contain no stimulants or drugs. Postum does not taste or act like ordinary beverages, but has a comforting flavor of its own. Make Postum easily, instantly, right in your cup. Just add freshly boiling water, stir and enjoy.

Try Postum for 30 days. When nerves are soothed, you sleep better, feel better, look better.

LIFE OF MACKENZIE KING

disputes. The Act was based on voluntary action in that either party was free to invoke or accept conciliation or both could agree on arbitration.

Their First Test

King and their new Conciliation Act met their first test in October, 1900, in a strike in Valleyfield, Quebec. Laborers engaged in excavation work for a new factory for the Montreal Cotton Company struck for higher wages, which were refused. The company then brought the dispute to a close by discontinuing the work for the strikers."

Kingsmere Summer

King spent a large part of the summer of 1901 at Kingsmere, a rural district in the province of Quebec some 12 miles from Ottawa. He and Albert Harper had cycled there the preceding Thanksgiving — the time of year when the whole country was aflame with the red, copper, and yellow of the hardwoods standing in relief against the darker shades of the evergreens.

The two friends were delighted with what they saw, especially with King Mountain, Kingsmere Lake, and the unspoiled natural forest which covered the whole area. A few cottages had already been built near the lake, and the two enthusiasts decided to come out the following summer and stay at a house where their friends, Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Herridge, were accustomed to bring their children.

Two years later he built a little cottage on the brow of this hill. It contained a large living room in which he usually slept and several small rooms, with a verandah on the front and on one side. The cottage's chief distinction was a fireplace (copied from one in Shakespeare's home at Stratford-on-Avon), and King decided to use this special feature for an opening ceremony to which he had invited a few friends.

King dedicated the fireplace to Harper's memory (he had been drowned in 1901), and the fire was lit — only to drive all the guests choking from the room when it was discovered that despite the Shakespearean model, the fireplace refused to draw.

Permanent Foothold

This first cottage gave King a permanent foothold in Kingsmere which he never ceased to cherish. He quickly developed the habit of spending all his available time there in the summer rather than seek the charms of the sea shore or inland resorts. Kingsmere was the first and only love of his

King summed up his success in a letter:

"... I wired Mr. Mulock on Monday night that I thought I could effect a settlement and was acting as conciliator. He wired me next morning: greatly pleased to learn that you are acting as conciliator, use best endeavors to bring about settlement, continue your effort long as any chance of succeeding." By Tuesday noon, I was able to wire him that settlement had been effected, all men back at work and troops withdrawn, etc. That night he wired "My heartiest congratulations on successful settlement of Valleyfield strike." I know Mr. Mulock will be much delighted."

Personal Factors

Several personal factors contributed to King's success. His first great qualification for this work was his friendly manner and exceptional charm. He met the contestants without delay or ceremony, inspired their confidence, and created the impression that he understood and to some degree, at least, sympathized with the position each had adopted. Most people found difficulty in resisting his

Few young men of 26 could remain unaffected by such success. Within a few months of taking up his work in the department of labor King had acquired a national reputation. In the years that followed his reputation was materially enlarged. With it came a variety of honors and awards at least one of which was unexpected, not to say amusing.

On a July day in 1904 while he was representing the dominion government in an industrial dispute at Sydney, Nova Scotia, King was invited to dine on the French cruiser Troude. He stepped aboard to the greeting of an 11-gun salute.

W. I. Land, Lions' Club Member, Dies

Mature years, and he was unwavering and uncritical in his devotion.

In May, 1904, he worked away at painting the new cottage "on the Sabbath" (as his mother remarked reproachfully), and later in the summer Mr. and Mrs. King and Jennie joined him for a month. "This is an ideal spot for a house," wrote his sister Jennie, "and the house itself is as quaint as it can be. I don't think it at all tiny and (it) is certainly awfully pretty. He (Billy) has shown remarkable good taste in his curtains, etc. and I only wish you could see it too. All his doors, windows, etc. are painted white and it makes the place so fresh. I sleep in the big room and we use the other bedroom for a dining room. It is all lovely and Billy is so happy."

Born in Derby, Eng., Mr. Land resided here for the past 40 years. He was a First World War veteran, a charter member of the Lions Club, a member of the Victoria Cricket Association and former choirmaster of Belmont United Church.

INDIA, RUSSIA SIGN 5-YEAR TRADE PACT

LONDON (AP) — A five-year trade agreement between the Soviet Union and India was signed in Moscow Sunday.

Moscow radio said the government agreed to "increase trade to the maximum extent possible."

"The agreement contains a most-favored-nation clause and establishes a clearing procedure without conversion of Indian rupees, in which payment will be made, into pounds sterling or any other currency."

Idaho, and Master Sgt. Joseph A. Reagan of Nellis Air Force Base, Nev.

Still missing were the co-pilot, Lieut. Donald E. Born, 28, of Andover, N.Y., and navigator, Capt. Donald Liggett, 40, of Indianapolis, Ind.

JUMPED DURING STORM

The plane commander, Capt. Harry O. Blount, 33, of Great Falls, Mont., was found within a few hours after the men jumped in a storm just before dark Friday when their C-119 flying boxcar developed engine trouble.

Feltner said he prepared his death bed in the snow near a log-and-lay-down. But then:

"I saw a flash of light. I didn't believe it and started to lay down again."

"I had to take one more look and I saw it again. I hollered, and they, the rescuers, found me."

118 More Men Out of Work In City Area

Victoria's unemployment situation continues to get worse week by week as winter approaches, with 118 more men out of work Saturday than the previous week.

Assistant manager H. W. Smith of the local office of the National Employment Service blames shut-down of construction jobs here and up-island, shipyard layoffs "and the increasing number of newcomers to the area."

Women are not faring so badly, however, with an unemployed total this week only 13 more than last week's figure.

Overall unemployed total stands at 4,129—2,666 men and 1,463 women—compared with 3,998 a week ago.

DO IT NOW

Meanwhile the Winter Employment Committee's campaign to stimulate off-season work and employment will move out of the present "Plan Now" stage to "Do it now—why wait for spring?" in January.

"It is expected," said an NES official, "that increased support will be forthcoming this winter as more and more businessmen come to accept the logic of taking advantage of the availability of men and materials in the winter, instead of competing for them in the summer when demands on them are at their peak."

Funeral service will be held Tuesday, at 1 p.m., in Hayward's Chapel, for Frederick James Popham, 86, of 843 Fort Street, father and grandfather of well-known Victoria sports personalities. He died Saturday in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

He was the father of Arthur Edward Popham, Sr., commissioner of the Inter-City Lacrosse League. His grandsons, Darrell and Edward, Jr., were former players for the Victoria Shamrocks.

Born in Devon, England, he came to Canada with his parents when only two weeks old, settled in Victoria in 1902, and was a partner of the former Popham Brothers' Biscuit & Confectionery Manufacturers.

He served overseas with the Canadian forces in the First World War and was an active member of the Masonic Lodge.

Survivors include the widow, Emma, at home; two sons, Arthur and Frederick, both of Victoria; five grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Rev. Douglas Kendall will officiate at the service.

CITY AUTHOR: James Morton, 89, has been made an honorary life member of the Victoria and Island branch, Canadian Authors' Association. He is the first member of the branch to receive the distinguished award. Past-president of the local CAA branch, Mr. Morton was the author of "Honest John Oliver."

GRAY FILES APPEAL; SOMMERS UNDECIDED

VANCOUVER (CP)—An appeal was filed today on behalf of H. Wilson Gray, timber firm executive who along with former provincial lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, was sentenced Friday to five years in prison for conspiracy and bribery.

J. R. Nicholson, counsel for Gray, said appeals also were being filed on behalf of Gray's firms, Pacific Coast Services Ltd., and Evergreen Lumber Sales.

Angelo Branca, who defended Sommers at the lengthy trial, said no decision has yet been made on the question of appealing on behalf of the former minister.

REPLY TO BONNER

Sturdy Says Delay Due To Election

Attorney General Robert Bonner was in "a better position" to lay charges against Robert Sommers and H. Wilson Gray in July, 1956, than in November, 1957, when they were arrested, lawyer David Sturdy stated.

"It is my personal belief that Mr. Bonner held back from making these charges because of the provincial general election on Sept. 19." Mr. Sturdy told The Times from his office in Vancouver.

Mr. Sturdy said that Mr. Bonner had all the necessary evidence in July, 1956 and was "in a better position then because it was all much fresher."

Sommers and Gray were sentenced to five years' imprisonment Friday for their part in bribery and conspiracy cases involving forest management licences.

Mr. Sturdy today took issue with Mr. Bonner's 13-page statement Friday in which he defended his actions in the case.

"I believe Mr. Bonner waited until after Sommers' slander suit against me was dismissed and then, because of pressure of public opinion, decided to have Sommers and Gray arrested."

"All the information I have points to that course of procedure."

Mr. Sturdy challenged the truth of Mr. Bonner's statement on two main grounds:

1. That Mr. Bonner had no substantial evidence on which to base a prosecution until November, 1957.

2. That on Dec. 7, 1955, Charles Eversfield and Mr. Sturdy failed to give him a body of evidence.

"Neither statement is true," Mr. Sturdy said. "In the first ground, all the evidence necessary to prosecute is contained in the Butler RCMP report which Mr. Bonner had in July, 1956.

DAVID STURDY
...he didn't want to hear"

"I have read the Butler report. I have made a complete memorandum of its contents. It is all there."

On the second ground, Mr. Sturdy said Mr. Bonner had enough evidence from the 1955 interview with himself and Mr. Eversfield.

"Neither statement is true,"

Mr. Sturdy said. "In the first ground, all the evidence necessary to prosecute is contained in the Butler RCMP report which Mr. Bonner had in July, 1956.

"He could and should have laid these charges before the provincial general election of Sept. 19, 1956."

Mr. Sturdy insisted that when he and Mr. Eversfield called on Mr. Bonner on Dec. 7, 1955, he (Mr. Sturdy) had enough evidence to warrant an inquiry.

"I took the evidence to his office in my brief case," Mr. Sturdy said. "I asked him to call a police officer to go through it. And, of course, I left him Mr. Eversfield's statutory declaration.

"But, apart from that, Mr. Bonner talked a long time with Eversfield. He asked him every pertinent question concerning all aspects of the accusations. And Eversfield answered every question."

"Mr. Bonner then said: 'Do you realize you are accusing a minister of the crown and four corporations of wrongdoing?'"

"I told Eversfield not to answer that question, but I told Mr. Bonner there was a strong prima facie case against Sommers and H. W. Gray and Gray's companies. We then got into an argument about prima facie cases."

"I insisted that my evidence was enough to warrant an immediate inquiry. The fact is that all evidence at the trial stems from Eversfield's documents and information."

"The truth is Mr. Bonner was bewildered and frightened and he didn't want to hear what I had to say."

"He had the whole evidence presented to him in the Butler report, but did not act on it for 15 months."

Mr. Sturdy said Mr. Bonner refused to act early in the Sommers case, not because of any lack of evidence, but "because he wished to protect his colleague and his party from a scandal."

Mr. Sturdy concluded:

"Having done what I set out to do—getting this evidence investigated—I would rather renounce the whole affair. But I feel Mr. Bonner's statement is so inaccurate that I should at least answer it."

New Power Manager Appointed

Briggs to Address Vernon Businessmen

By PETE LOUDON

Appointment of B.C. Power Commission chief engineer R. C. McMordie as acting general manager to replace deposed "rebel" H. Lee Briggs, was announced today.

Commission chairman T. H. Crosby, who made the announcement, said Mr. McMordie also would continue to fill his engineering office.

Meanwhile, Mr. Briggs, who was fired Friday for criticizing government power policies, will travel to Vernon Wednesday to speak on his convictions that the publicly-owned power commission is being undermined by private firms, with government assistance.

The invitation was issued by Vernon Board of Trade following Mr. Briggs' dismissal.

WITHDRAW

Mr. Briggs issued a statement this morning reiterating that he will defend his contentions, but otherwise "I am most anxious from this point on, to withdraw entirely into the background."

He added: "I ask and indeed beg of the members of the press and others, that they consider my part of this distasteful job as done and finished."

As to his future, he said he hopes it will be possible for him to carry on "... in the electric power field. The authorities to whom I may henceforth be privileged to answer can rest assured that barring the most extreme provocation, the conventional lines of report will be observed rigorously."

SEE IT THROUGH

He confirmed, however, that he will remain in this area to see the storm he started carried to its conclusion. He has already rejected an offer of employment from an electrical company in eastern Canada.

He has also promised that before any general election may be called he will, without any political affiliation or without any political ambition of his own, "stump" the province telling electors of the dangers inherent in permitting the Wenner-Gren interests to develop natural power resources in B.C.

Fame Spreads As Mediator

Serialization of this new and official unpublished biography of Mackenzie King is being run daily Monday to Friday in the news columns of the Times and in Saturday's Weekend Magazine.

By ROBERT MACGREGOR DAWSON

On Sept. 15, 1900, King was made deputy minister of labor.

The Laurier government with an eye on the coming election was anxious to capitalize on its efforts in the labor interest. The Trades and Labor Congress met in Ottawa in September, and the delegates were welcomed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The minister of labor also spoke, reviewing some of the measures which the government had recently introduced and calling for suggestions from the congress.

He presented Ralph Smith, a member of the British Columbia legislature and the president of the congress, with the first copy of the Labor Gazette. The Congress, while very appreciative of the recent efforts of the federal government, nevertheless did not rise to its opportunities and passed a resolution favoring independent political action.

King soon discovered that a large part of his time would be devoted to conciliation work. The Conciliation Act of 1900, which was copied in large measure from a successful British statute on the subject, had for its object the prevention and settlement of industrial disputes.

The government's labor policy seems to have been of moderate interest during the campaign, but King wrote that "with the exception of Mr. Mulock, most of the Cabinet seem to be afraid of touching it." The election returns were a disappointment to Mulock, for the Liberals lost ground in Ontario. "He said of

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK

By RUTH ENKE

The Windy Sky

"TIME for your back rub," the young nurse said briskly.

So Mrs. Brown eased herself on to her side, and lay looking out of the window while the nurse rubbed with more energy than skill.

"There now," said the nurse, giving her seat a final friendly smack as a booster for morale, "that feel better, dear?"

"Yes, thank you," said Mrs. Brown, and dragged her mind back to the familiar routine of the women's ward.

The view from the window was what had saved her, she reflected, and, in the past five weeks, she'd come to know every detail of that view as well—the slender church spire among the thinning autumn trees, a tall brick chimney to the left, and, between trees and chimneys, a glimpse of the western sky.

"It's a windy sky today," she murmured to herself, and the words "windy sky" took her miles and years away to the time when her children were young.

They lived on the prairie then, and life had been hard because of the depression. But, looking back, she couldn't remember the hard times as clearly as the happy times, and among the happy ones, some of the best were when she'd taken the children out beyond the limits of the town so they could fly their home-made kites.

They'd walked, always, because it was only a matter of a mile or two. Often, she'd taken some of the neighbors' children as well. Always, or so it seemed, there'd been a baby in the buggy.

She remembered, vividly, a day of sun and wind when the big kite had flown especially well, dipping, soaring, soaring until they'd paid out the very last length of string.

Now, closing her eyes, she could almost see the children running across the flat open land.

She could almost see them, rosy, excited, tousled but not tired, as they came back to where she'd stayed with the baby in the buggy unseen. But, somehow, they'd had a festive air.

For once, no one had quarreled about who should hold the string. Everyone was happy.

"Hungry?" she'd asked, and then she'd produced the "surprise" she'd hidden in the buggy.

It was only a bag of the ginger snaps she'd baked that morning, only a few candies which one of the neighbors had slipped into the buggy unseen. But, somehow, they'd had a festive air.

The diamond-shaped brown paper kite with its long fluttering tail, the big black buggy that she'd bought second-hand and used for all her babies, the children walking more slowly on the homeward way—all, for the moment, seemed more real than her surroundings in the ward.

You didn't have any visitors this afternoon," said the woman in the bed next hers.

"Only the children," said Mrs. Brown, smiling a little at the fancy, and not bothering to explain.

"She's nuts," the woman whispered later to her own visiting husband. "Doesn't know where she is, half the time."

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Airport Parades Irk Queen

LONDON—You've seen newsreel shots of the Queen setting out from or returning to London Airport.

It's quite a performance—the red carpet laid out, aircrane lined up for review, salutes, handshakes with airport and government officials, and handwaving acknowledged to the crowd.

But has it occurred to you how often you've seen this minor spectacle?

Fact of the matter is that the Queen can't move anywhere by air without all this rigmarole going on.

And she finds it tedious. Very air-minded, she would like to use aircraft much more, especially for such things as avoiding the long train journey by going by air to Balmoral for a weekend of relaxation.

But it's no secret now that she prefers not to face the ordeal of these airport ceremonies unless it is for a major flight.

For the Queen there is no such thing as just getting on a plane and going somewhere. If she travels by train there is nothing like the same ritual.

Have you ever seen her shaking hands with the engine-driver and his mate and the rest of the traincrew?

But these airport parades, perhaps because in earlier days it was a rarity for the Sovereign to take to the air, are a production.

Prince Philip is even more irked by them.

Being a bona fide airman, he'd like nothing better than to be able to go to an airport or an RAF station and just climb aboard and be off.

Prince Bernhard of Holland has special facilities at London Airport, whereby a corner of the field is allocated to him for private landings when he flies over here and he merely gets into a car and drives off with a minimum of fuss.

Prince Philip has sought such facilities and it's probable that soon he'll be able to do this, too.

When he's alone, that is. When he is with the Queen he must go with her through the same exchanges of salutes and handshakes with those same officials over and over again in a ceremonial that can never be got through in under half an hour.

But pressure is being put on the Ministry of Transport, who look after this branch of Royal etiquette, to call off these parades and let the Queen enjoy private flights.

Settlement Nearing In Shipyard Dispute

Car Kills Colwood Gardener

A 64-year-old Chinese gardener Saturday night became Greater Victoria's 10th traffic fatality of the year — and the area's second pedestrian death in five days.

Dead is Lee Man, 1907 Sooke Road, Colwood, who suffered head and other injuries at 7:25 p.m. Saturday when in collision with a car at Island Highway and Belmont.

An inquest will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday at McCallum's.

Colwood RCMP said the driver of the car was a Metchosin area juvenile whose name could not be released.

The deceased was well known and well liked in the Colwood district.

"He was the best old Chinaman in the world," Lee's former employer said.

A LEGEND

Mrs. W. C. Bryan, 1907 Sooke, said Lee lived in a cottage on her property and had been employed as handyman and gardener for more than 26 years.

"He's a legend around this corner," a neighbor, Cmdr. E. A. Jamieson, said.

Colwood Corner service station operator Don Lowe said he saw Lee walk past before the accident.

He said Lee was going east toward Victoria on the right side of the highway and the car was going in the same direction.

After the accident, the gardener lay about six feet from the car, his hat about 50 feet back, Mr. Lowe said.

There is no street light at the intersection, which is about 200 feet east of Colwood Corner.

Apparently Lee went for a walk after stopping at the home of Mrs. Alice McNeil, 304 Goldstream, where he usually watched television with Mrs. McNeil's daughter.

The girl was busy with homework, Mrs. McNeil said.

"I didn't think he would want to watch TV alone, so I didn't say anything. He must have just walked out the door and across the road."

It is understood Lee came to Victoria from China when he was 21.

Gallery Extension Wins Praise From Easterner

Victoria's new Art Gallery extension should be a matter of great pride to citizens as it is "an outstanding example of what can be accomplished in a short time," Miss Norah McCullough, western representative of the National Gallery, Ottawa, said here today.

She visited the gallery to discuss circulation of travelling exhibits.

Victoria can now take any major exhibit offered by the National Gallery, with the exception of really large shows, she said.

$50 or 30 Days For Supplying Liquor to Minor

Herbert Scobie, no fixed address, was fined $50 or 30 days in jail when he pleaded guilty in city police court today to supplying liquor to a minor.

He told the court a young man approached him outside Johnson Street liquor store and told him he was 85 cents short of the price of a case of beer.

Scobie said he took the man's money, made up the difference and bought the beer, handing it to him a short distance up the street.

"There may be some truth in what you say. But I doubt it," Magistrate H. C. Hall commented.

Microfilm Cameras Peering Into City Council History

Detailed history of the work of Victoria city councils from 1862 to the present day went under microfilming cameras today.

Dozens of large volumes, containing handwritten minutes of council meetings in the beautiful script of the 1800's down to the modern-day typewritten versions are scheduled for microfilming during the next week or two.

All large size documents in several city departments will be microfilmed by Microfilming Services of Vancouver. When the job is finished, all the important papers held by the city will be assembled in a microfilm library for easy reference.

An end was expected today to the long-simmering contract dispute between B.C.'s four major shipyards and 2,600 workers.

A meeting of company and union officials with conciliator Reginald Clements of the provincial labor department began in Vancouver at 10 a.m. and was due to resume at 3 p.m.

It will probably turn up a formula that will be acceptable to representatives of 26 unions involved when the negotiating committee meets later today.

But shipyards' spokesman J. W. Hudson, chairman of the B.C. Shipbuilders' Federation, warned that the yards were not planning on increasing their offer of a graduated 6 per cent increase.

REACHED LIMIT

"That is as far as we can go," he told The Times. "If three is an agreement it will be based on the other issues."

The "other issues" are certain vacation changes and union demands for exclusion of company laws from future contracts. They are also seeking a 12½ per cent pay boost but are said to be prepared to reduce the figure if the other contract changes are made.

Crescent will be in the centre of the formation with HMCS Cayuga to starboard and HMCS Athabaskan to port.

In the first line of the screen formation will be HMCS Fraser with HMCS Margaret to starboard and HMCS Skeena to port.

VANTAGE POINTS

Vantage points from which the public can see the arrival stretch all along the Dallas Road and Beach Drive waterfront with possibly the best view from Clover Point.

The five escorting warships will "peel off" near Ogden Point while Crescent will steam into the Inner Harbor and berth at the Black Ball ferry dock.

About 15 minutes later she will rejoin the five other ships in the Royal Roads area and proceed with them into Esquimalt harbor.

The exercise will be the last in which the present components of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron will take part as a unit.

Crescent, Cayuga and Athabaskan are being transferred to the east coast and replaced by St. Laurent class destroyer escorts.

The men, who earn an average of $240 an hour, earlier rejected a graduated 6 per cent increase recommended by Mr. Clements in his first report.

This recommendation was accepted by the yards because, said a spokesman, they wanted to "maintain continuity of employment."

Talks Under Way In Tug Dispute

Preliminary talks began in Vancouver today in conciliation efforts to end a long-standing dispute between three seamen's unions and some 50 towboat companies along the west coast.

But federal conciliation officer George Currie said it was "much too early" to make any comment on progress.

The unions—Merchant Service Guild, Marine Engineers and Seafarers International Union—want a 20 per cent pay boost. Two-party negotiations broke down in Vancouver last week, resulting in Mr. Currie's appointment as conciliator in the deadlock.

'HEDDA' IS HERE

Drama Head Rings Bell With Cloche

By TONY DICKASON

Canada's Hedda Hopper of

She is Mrs. D. W. (Pauline) McGibbon of Toronto, president of the Dominion Drama Festival.

Women, literally "breath down my neck," she said, in an effort to receive one of her tailored creations.

"I don't actually have many hats. Most of them go as gifts."

McGibbon lighted up one corner of the Empress Hotel coffee shop this morning under a severe black cloche creation trimmed with feathers of a violent scarlet.

DEVASTATING

She prefers hats with white feathers for afternoon wear.

They are, to say the least, devastating.

But—as a clubwoman of considerable importance on the national scene—Mrs. McGibbon is careful in choosing hat styles to wear while addressing audiences.

"You have to be sure there is nothing that dangles, or bobs, when you are talking. Otherwise the audience gets its eyes on the dangly bit, and follows it with head movements."

This, to a speaker, is disconcerting, she affirmed.

She has three hats with her this trip.

Mrs. McGibbon, apart from her drama work, is national educational secretary of the IODE which has 32,000 members in Canada.

The IODE awarded more than $250,000 last year in grants, fellowships and scholarships," she nodded.

She is here to attend the annual meeting of the governing committee of the Canadian Drama Award to be held tonight.

TRAINING GROUND

The Dominion Drama Festival—to be held in Vancouver in 1960—is "the training ground for professionals," she said.

Too many drama groups are "loath to take a chance" on Canadian-written plays, as proven money-getters are preferred from the box-office viewpoint, she said. However, French-speaking writers and players were leading the way in Canada with unique native stage presentations.

And what about the "hangovers" in drama groups, who have no acting ability?

"We try to channel their activity. Like painting scenery."

Cyclist Injured

A teen-aged cyclist in collision with a car outside 644 Ralph was taken unconscious to St. Joseph's Hospital at 12:10 p.m. today.

The hospital reported the boy, about 14, regained consciousness shortly after and appeared to be in favorable condition.

Saanich police said the victim had head and back injuries and at press time were still investigating the accident.

Q. Can you please oblige me with the address to write for an application for veterans' houses for married couples?—E.W.

A. Write J. S. Adam, assistant administrator, Dept. of Veterans' Affairs, 885 Government Street, Victoria. He will pass your query along to the department section which in turn will be able to answer all your questions.

Q. How did the White House in Washington D.C. get its name?—C.G.

A. In 1814 the British burned public buildings. The president's residence was spared by flames and was painted over with white paint. The name "White House" stuck.

MONTE ROBERTS

The trouble with the people of the world today, the people are in a rut.

Take the matter of eating.

Eating is broken up into a series of formalized main efforts, viz., breakfast, lunch, and dinner (or breakfast, dinner, and supper, depending).

Let us start with the matter of breakfast.

Only yesterday a friend of mine, arising rather late, the day being Sunday, peered into the refrigerator.

His wife was still dozing, and my friend left that, while he was not actually hungry at the moment, the food eventually feel hungry as the day wore on.

And within the refrigerator, my friend spied a chicken, procured by his wife with the intention of roasting for Sunday dinner (or supper, depending).

So my friend thought, ah ha, this is a small roasting chicken, and it can be roasted in a matter of two hours, by which time it will be an ideal means with which to break my fast.

Following this line of thought, my friend popped the chicken into the oven, looking forward to a tasty breakfast.

When his wife was awakened by the delectable aroma of chicken roasting in the oven, she made noises akin to a rooster greeting the dawn, and castigate my friend severely.

In her view, the idea of chicken for breakfast was heathen, unorthodox, and better she should go home to mother.

Which goes to prove, the people of the world today are in a rut.

What in the world is wrong with roast chicken for breakfast?

The generally accepted idea in the world today is, one may eat the products of chicken, namely eggs, at breakfast, but one must not eat the chicken itself.

I submit the world would be a far better place in which to live if the individuals within it were permitted to eat what they wish to eat when they wish to eat it.

There is many a man who cannot face the accusing, malignant yellow eye of a fried egg in the morning, but would welcome same in the evening.

And the same man could break his fast—with great joy—on a small nubbin of steak, or a mess of chile con carne, or a bowl of clam chowder.

A good, hot, thick bowl of porridge should be a man's right—as well as privilege—at 7 p.m. just as much as it is at 7 a.m.

Let us get out of the rut, which calls for certain types of food at certain times.

Let us eat what we wish, when we wish it.

(If we can afford it.)

The directors' action came at a special meeting. Last week the B.C. Automobile Association urged moving the motor vehicle registration branch from Victoria to Vancouver.

They said every effort should be exerted to avoid splitting government departments. "Victoria, as capital, should remain as the center of government served by administrative departments."

Detailed history of the work of Victoria city councils from 1862 to the present day went under microfilming cameras today.

Eskimo Women's Place in Home
Changing Fast

The one hectic existence of the Eskimo woman is giving place to a life that includes leisure, says an officer of the northern affairs department's information branch.

Mrs. Irene Baird told a women's group here that with fairly modern homes and time-saving equipment, women in the Arctic are beginning to face the problem of leisure time. The Eskimo woman's place in the home is also changing, she said.

In the past, life was so densely crowded up against the immediate moment that she had no time to feel idle, lonely, confused or frustrated.

The ancestral pattern of Eskimo life made each member of a family essential to each other. But schools, hospitals and organized communities had changed that pattern.

"Such periods of social change are harder on women than men. Men move out into the new ways because they must; they have the incentive of the wage earner."

Such changes had taken place in a very few years, she said.

Self-respect is a type of self-love and yet it is our most valuable asset. It makes us hold ourselves erectly, take pride in our appearance, in the way we treat others, in our standards. The self-respect we have reflects the value we place on ourselves.

Shakespeare wrote, "Self-love, my liege, is not so vile a sin as self-neglect."

It is true that the sins of omission are as great or greater than sins of commission. It is not so much the devitalized foods we eat which damage our health and looks, but the fact that we fail to eat enough of the essential foods. It is the lack of skin care and exercise and weight control which make us appear and feel older than we are.

Self-respect is a type of self-love and yet it is our most valuable asset. It makes us hold ourselves erectly, take pride in our appearance, in the way we treat others, in our standards. The self-respect we have reflects the value we place on ourselves.

It is only when we lose respect for ourselves or are ill or so deeply discouraged that we lose sight of ourselves as individuals, that we slump into dowdiness or dreariness.

Well, it is easy to check ourselves physically! All we need is a large mirror! I have suggested this before but I do not think I have called your attention, recently anyway, to the importance of looking at yourself, side view.

Jackson said the Russians "can sell at a loss and buy at a premium when it suits their purposes—concentrating their fire on the vulnerable economies in the Middle East, Southern Asia and Latin America."

He said Moscow has already upset world timber, tin and aluminum markets by cut-rate sales.

The committee also recommended a hard-hitting offensive to counter Soviet economic warfare. It said the Atlantic community should:

1. Affirm that an economic assault upon one of us is an economic assault upon all of us.

2. Rally our creative talents in economics and political science and put them to work on a joint economic strategy, and

3. Use NATO-wide arrangements for economic consultations and economic diplomacy."

NATO Urged To Launch Satellite

PARIS (AP)—A committee of parliamentarians proposed today that NATO launch by 1960 an earth satellite for peaceful outer space research.

The satellite, which would bear the emblem of the North Atlantic Alliance, is the first point in a proposed program of "peaceful scientific and technical co-operation in upper atmosphere and outer space research, development and exploration."

The program was recommended by the scientific and technical committee of the fourth NATO parliamentary conference, which opened a week-long session in Paris.

The committee chairman, U.S. Senator Henry M. Jackson, suggested in a speech prepared for delivery to the conference that scientists from the 15 NATO powers be invited to meet at an early date to draft a co-operative research effort.

COMBINED IDEAS

He said the scientists "might aim at designing an advanced peaceful research satellite which combines the best ideas of our scientific community."

"This satellite could be sent into space with a launching vehicle supplied by a nation possessing a major missile program," he said.

The committee also recommended a hard-hitting offensive to counter Soviet economic warfare. It said disputes. The Act was based on voluntary action in that either party was free to invoke or accept conciliation or both could agree on arbitration.

Their First Test

King and the new Conciliation Act met their first test in October, 1900, in a strike in Valleyfield, Quebec. Laborers engaged in excavation work for a new factory for the Montreal Cotton Company struck for higher wages, which were refused. The company then brought the dispute to a close by discontinuing the work for the strikers.

Kingsmere Summer

King spent a large part of the summer of 1901 at Kingsmere, a rural district in the province of Quebec some 12 miles from Ottawa. He and Albert Harper had cycled there the preceding Thanksgiving — the time of year when the whole country was afire with the red, copper, and yellow of the hardwoods standing in relief against the darker shades of the evergreens.

The two friends were delighted with what they saw, especially with King Mountain, Kingsmere Lake, and the unspoiled natural forest which covered the whole area. A few cottages had already been built near the lake, and the two enthusiasts decided to come out the following summer and stay at a house where their friends, Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Herridge, were accustomed to bring their children.

King summed up his success in a letter:

"... I wired Mr. Mulock on Monday night that I thought I could effect a settlement and was acting as conciliator. He wired me next morning greatly pleased to learn that you are acting as conciliator, use best endeavors to bring about a settlement, continue your effort long as any chance of succeeding." By Tuesday noon, I was able to wire him that settlement had been effected, all men back at work and troops withdrawn, etc. That night he wired "My heartfelt congratulations on successful settlement of Valleyfield strike. I know Mr. Mulock will be much delighted."

Personal Factors

Several personal factors contributed to King's success. His first great qualification for this work was his friendly manner and exceptional charm. He met the contestants without delay or ceremony, inspiring their confidence, and created the impression that he understood and to some degree, at least, sympathized with the position each had adopted. Most people found difficulty in resisting his

Permanent Foothold

This first cottage gave King a permanent foothold in Kingsmere which he never ceased to cherish. He quickly developed the habit of spending all his available time there in the summer rather than seek the charms of the sea shore or inland resorts. Kingsmere was the first and only love of his courtesy, his patience, and his genuine interest in their problems. "By his tact and good management," wrote the Mayor of Oshawa, Fred L. Fowke, to William Mulock in December, 1900, "Mr. King appears to have brought about an understanding between the Malleable Iron Co. and their employees which we hope will create bonds of unity not easily to be broken in the future..."

Mr. King seems to have quieted their (the stockholders') nerves and quite won their respect and confidence, while at the same time he captured the hearts of the strikers."

W. I. Land, Lions' Club Member, Dies

In May, 1904, he worked away at painting the new cottage "on the Sabbath" (as his mother remarked reproachfully), and later in the summer Mr. and Mrs. King and Jennie joined him for a month. "This is an ideal spot for a house," wrote his sister Jennie, "and the house itself is as quaint as it can be. I don't think it at all tiny and (it) is certainly awfully pretty. He (Billy) has shown remarkably good taste in his curtains, etc. and I only wish you could see it too. All his doors, windows, etc. are painted white and it makes the place so fresh. I sleep in the big room and we use the other bedroom for a dining room. It is all lovely and Billy is so happy."

King was never one to conceal his merits: but no matter how much he might have tried to avoid the limelight, his repeated successes could not possibly have allowed him to remain in obscurity. Strikes and lockouts — real or threatened — had news value, and publicity lurked in the background even when the negotiations were most scrupulously guarded.

In Headlines

"Again the Conciliation Act," "Mr. King Exonerated" (in the Valleyfield affair), "Triumph for Conciliation," "Call in Mr. King," "Deputy Minister King is Coming," were typical headlines in the press. Nor was King above giving the record a little additional help. "Rex and I have been getting some cheap newspaper notoriety," wrote Harper. "The information is I think pretty much as Rex dictated it... For myself I don't think it proper nor even wise for young men to keep blowing their trumpets too loudly. Vanity is Rex's great weakness however, and will I fear remain an alloy in his character to the close."

Few young men of 26 could remain unaffected by such success. Within a few months of taking up his work in the department of labor King had acquired a national reputation. In the years that followed his reputation was materially enlarged. With it came a variety of honors and awards, at least one of which was unexpected, not to say amusing.

On a July day in 1904 while he was representing the dominion government in an industrial dispute at Sydney, Nova Scotia, King was invited to dine on the French cruiser Troude. He stepped aboard to the greeting of an 11-gun salute.

Tuesday: King enters Parliament.

Vancouver Island livestock and poultry raisers today hailed a new policy of the Canadian Wheat Board as one of the "best things to happen to B.C.'s agricultural industry in years."

The board has agreed to permit wheat farmers in the Peace River and Creston-Wynndel areas of B.C. to deal directly with livestock and poultry feeders in other parts of the province.

It also agreed to pay part of the freight costs for moving the grain to farmers living outside the two wheat-growing areas.

In the past, the wheat board, which acts as agent for all wheat growers in Canada, refused to permit farmer-to-farmer transactions in grain within the province.

It followed that Vancouver

Island and most mainland livestock raisers were obliged to buy grain directly from the board at a fixed price.

This placed B.C. producers at a disadvantage with Prairie producers as they had to pay the full board price, plus freight, for their grain, whereas Prairies enjoyed free trade for the purchase of their feed requirements.

Freight Rate Boost Eases Strike Threat

17 PER CENT HIKE AUTHORIZED

OTTAWA (CP) — A general freight rate increase of 17 per cent was authorized today by the board of transport commissioners indicating possibility of settlement of the general rail strike called for Dec. 1.

B.C. Sets Speedy Protest

British Columbia will immediately file an appeal to the federal cabinet against a new 17 per cent freight rate increase, and a protest meeting of "political heads" of provinces hit by the boost will likely be held.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today he expects an invitation for a parley of provincial premiers will be issued "by an eastern province" later today.

In announcing the decision to appeal directly to the federal cabinet, the attorney-general said the new increase will cost $6,000,000.

"The increase will mostly affect western and maritime shippers."

He said the direct impact on B.C. will be added costs in shipping of $5,000,000 this year.

"Possibly that much again" will be lost through the increased difficulties western business will be faced with in competing with eastern firms, which are not so severely affected.

"The increase is discriminatory in that 74 per cent (of the boost) will be met by 32 per cent of the traffic," he added.

"We think this decision should be met by a meeting of political heads of the province."

"There may be an invitation issued by an eastern province later today."

In the meantime, he said, the B.C. government is arranging a meeting in Vancouver Friday of interested shippers.

Cabinet to Study Decision Tuesday

OTTAWA (CP) — Acting Prime Minister Green said today he presumes that cabinet Tuesday will consider the general 17 per cent freight rate increase authorized by the board of transport commissioners.

He also told reporters he plans to inform Prime Minister Diefenbaker of the increase by telephone, perhaps today. Mr. Diefenbaker is in Pakistan.

Acting Power Chief Named

By PETE LOUDON
Appointment of B.C. Power Commission chief engineer R. C. McMordie as acting general manager to replace deposed "rebel" H. Lee Briggs, was announced today.

Commission chairman T. H. Crosby, who made the announcement, said Mr. McMordie also would continue to fill his engineering office.

Meanwhile, Mr. Briggs, who was fired Friday for criticizing government power policies, will travel to Vernon Wednesday to speak on his convictions that the publicly-owned power commission is being undermined by private firms, with government assistance.

The invitation was issued by Vernon Board of Trade following Mr. Briggs' dismissal.

Mr. Briggs issued a statement this morning reiterating that he will defend his contentions, but otherwise "I am most anxious from this point on, to withdraw entirely into the background."

He added: "I ask and indeed beg of the members of the press and others, that they consider my part of this distasteful job as done and finished."

As to his future, he said he hopes it will be possible for him to carry on . . . in the electric power field. The authorities to whom I may henceforth be privileged to answer can rest assured that barring the most extreme provocation, the conventional lines of report will be observed rigorously."

SEE IT THROUGH

He confirmed, however, that he will remain in this area to see the storm he started carried to its conclusion. He has already rejected an offer of employment from an electrical company in eastern Canada.

He has also promised that before any general election may be called he will, without any political affiliation or without any political ambition of his own, "stump" the province telling electors of the dangers inherent in permitting the Wenner-Gren interests to develop natural power resources in B.C.

GRAY FILES APPEAL ON BRIBE VERDICT

The railways had asked for 19 per cent.

The increase, worth some $60,000,000 a year to the major railways, will be permitted under board order to go into effect on the exact date set for the strike of 135,000 non-operating employees.

But while the permitted boost appears enough to take care of union wage demands on the railways and allow a settlement, this could be thrown out by one of two factors.

First, the cabinet could toss out the board increase. The cabinet is almost certain to have on its hands, in the next couple of days, an appeal against the increase from eight provinces—all except Ontario and Quebec.

Second, there is some speculation that the railways will not settle up before Dec. 1 because of unwillingness to sign a wage contract of this magnitude without having the freight increases actually in effect.

The 15 unions representing the non-operating workers have agreed to accept the report of a federal conciliation board recommending wage increases of about 14 cents an hour.

The railways have accepted, but only on condition they get enough out of a freight increase to handle the wage cost of some $60,000,000. The unions initially asked contract concessions running to some $140,000,000.

Likelihood is that the transport board's decision will bring the disputants into new negotiations. These have been in abeyance for weeks while the parties awaited the board's verdict.

The board stepped away from precedent in awarding a big freight rate increase on the basis of expected—rather than actual—railroad costs. But it warned in its 60-page decision that this will not

RAILWAYS RESUME TALKS WITH UNION

MONTREAL (CP)—Railway and union negotiators met today to discuss a proposal aimed at averting a Dec. 1 railway strike. After 27 minutes, the meeting was adjourned until 2 p.m. on Tuesday.

D. L. McNeill, CPR vice-president in charge of personnel, said "we have done a bit of ground-breaking, but that is all we can say right now."

Both railway and union officials declined to answer when asked if they felt the discussions would avert a strike. They said it is too early yet to say.

Russia Offers Dual Treaty

GENEVA (AP) — Russia offered today to negotiate two separate treaties for banning nuclear tests and for controlling the ban—and suggested the agreement be signed simultaneously.

Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin made the proposal at three-power talks on nuclear test suspension.

His proposal failed to meet a basic requirement in these talks—the linking of test suspension to a control system in one treaty.

The two-treaty approach advanced by the Russians raises the danger that the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union would commit themselves to a document promising to end tests but never be able to get a control system functioning, Western sources said.

An eastern source said Tsarapkin told the delegates the Soviet Union is prepared to accept an international control system.

The Western side maintains that if the Russians are sincere on this point they will ultimately agree to an all-inclusive single treaty.

LIFE OF MACKENZIE KING

Fame Spreads As Mediator

Serialization of this new and official unpublished biography of Mackenzie King is being run daily Monday to Friday in the news columns of the Times and in Saturday's Weekend Magazine.

By ROBERT MacGREGOR DAWSON

On Sept. 15, 1900, King was made deputy minister of labor.

The Laurier government with an eye on the coming election was anxious to capitalize on its efforts in the labor interest. The Trades and Labor Congress met in Ottawa in September, and the delegates were welcomed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The minister of labor also spoke, reviewing some of the measures which the government had recently introduced and calling for suggestions from the congress.

He presented Ralph Smith, a member of the British Columbia legislature and the president of the congress, with the first copy of the Labor Gazette. The Congress, while very appreciative of the recent efforts of the federal government, nevertheless did not rise to its opportunity and passed a resolution favoring independent political action.

King soon discovered that a large part of his time would be devoted to conciliation work. The Conciliation Act of 1900, which was copied in large measure from a successful British statute on the subject, had for its object the prevention and settlement of industrial disputes.

This general belief and Aboud's western background suggested no major changes would be expected in Sudanese policies.

The three-year-old republic has been pro-Western except during the 1956 Suez invasion crisis, and only last month negotiated an agreement for military aid from Britain.

During the hours of darkness just before dawn armored cars took up positions around the capital and guarded the airport. Other armored

Gen. Ibrahim Abboud, 57-year-old commander-in-chief of Sudan army, led bloodless coup d'état today which took over government of Prime Minister Abdullah Khalil.

Army Grabs Power In Sudan

KHARTOUM, Sudan (UPI)—The army seized power throughout the Republic of Sudan in a bloodless coup today. The coup was expected to bring no major changes in the Sudan's generally pro-Western politics.

Lt.-Gen. Ibrahim Abboud, the army commander-in-chief, proclaimed himself chief of state with a pledge of stability at home and closer relations with the United Arab Republic abroad.

The 57-year-old Abboud, a career officer, dissolved the civilian government of premier and former General Abdullah Khalil, suspended the constitution and decreed a state of emergency which was backed up by a show of armored car force throughout this capital and its twin city of Omdurman across the Nile.

There was no opposition to the coup d'état.

Foreign observers here believed the takeover had been carried out on behalf of Khalil, who was faced with increasing difficulties among the country's bickering political parties.

This general belief and Aboud's western background suggested no major changes would be expected in Sudanese policies.

The three-year-old republic has been pro-Western except during the 1956 Suez invasion crisis, and only last month negotiated an agreement for military aid from Britain.

During the hours of darkness just before dawn armored cars took up positions around the capital and guarded the airport. Other armored

No Decision From Sommers

VANCOUVER (CP)—An appeal was filed today on behalf of H. Wilson Gray, timber firm executive who along with former provincial lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, was sentenced Friday to five years in prison for conspiracy and bribery.

J. R. Nicholson, counsel for Gray, said appeals also were being filed on behalf of Gray's firms, Pacific Coast Services Ltd., and Evergreen Lumber Sales.

Angelo Branca, who defended Sommers at the lengthy trial, said no decision has yet been made on the question of appealing on behalf of the former minister.

STURDY CLAIMS:

'Charges Delayed Due to Election'

Attorney General Robert Bonner was in a better position to lay charges against Robert Sommers and H. Wilson Gray in July, 1956, than in November, 1957, when they were arrested, lawyer David Sturdy stated.

"It is my personal belief that Mr. Bonner held back from making these charges because of the provincial general election on Sept. 19," Mr. Sturdy told The Times from his office in Vancouver.

Mr. Sturdy said that Mr. Bonner had all the necessary evidence in July, 1956 and was in a better position then because it was all much fresher."

Sommers and Gray were sentenced to five years' imprisonment Friday for their part in bribery and conspiracy cases involving forest management licences.

Mr. Sturdy today took issue with Mr. Bonner's 13-page statement Friday in which he defended his actions in the case.

"I believe Mr. Bonner waited until after Sommers' slander suit against me was dismissed and then, because of pressure of public opinion, decided to have Sommers and Gray arrested.

There was no opposition to the coup d'état.

Foreign observers here believed the takeover had been carried out on behalf of Khalil, who was faced with increasing difficulties among the country's bickering political parties.

This general belief and Aboud's western background suggested no major changes would be expected in Sudanese policies.</ necessarily happen in the future.

"It cannot be anticipated," the decision said, "that the board will accept in future to applications for rate increases due wholly or partially to proposed wage increases until agreement has been reached between the employees and the railways by completion of the usual processes of labor negotiation."

Going into effect Dec. 1, the increase was calculated by the board to yield the Canadian Pacific—the "yardstick line"—about $26,500,000 between then and the end of 1959, the amount the CPR considered necessary to meet the added costs of the wage hike.

The larger, publicly owned Canadian National Railways had stated it needed $41,500,000.

The board indicated the freight rate increase will not meet this CNR amount fully.

JUST INTERIM INCREASE

However, the five-man panel headed by Assistant Chief Commissioner Rod Kerr made clear that this is just an interim increase and that an application for a new one from the railways will be entertained shortly.

Expectations are that the railways will ask for one of around 18 per cent to cover additional costs beyond those of the immediate wage increase.

Meanwhile, the board said, the interim increase is not for the purpose of bringing the CPR's net rail income up to the level previously adjudged by the board as being reasonable for that company. CPR's net was still below the authorized level.

COAL, COKE ALSO UP

The percentage increase does not apply to coal and coke, on which the board authorized a rise of 22 cents per ton. The railways had asked for 25 cents.

The board said the increase should be sufficient to yield 1958-59 revenue "approximately equivalent to the amount of Canadian Pacific's additional labor costs . . . and Canadian Pacific is being used as the yardstick railway and CP's additional labor costs as the specific yardstick for the purpose of determining interim relief."

"Such rate increases will provide Canadian National with a substantial amount of additional revenue and to that extent will help it also to meet its additional labor costs."

BOARD SATISFIED

Dealing with the question of justifying a freight rate increase before the offsetting expenses have come into effect, the board said that it is "satisfied that the probability of payment of the wage increases by CNR and CPR is so strong that it should take them into consideration and include and count them as payable expenses in appraising the financial position of the railways for the immediate future."

This question is likely to come before the cabinet. It is a precedent for the board, which never before has awarded a rate hoist on the basis of future costs.

The board added:

"The protracted wage negotiations, the report of the federal conciliation board, and acceptance of the conciliation board's recommendations by the non-operating unions, the qualified acceptance of such recommendations by CNR and CPR, the demands of other railway employees, past experience of settling other wage disputes . . . impel the board to conclude that the railways will pay the other increased wages and other labor expenses in 1958 and 1959."

Sacred Music Singer Dies Here at 81

Mrs. Rosabella Jane Burnett, 81, resident here since 1900 and well-known singer of sacred music years ago, died Sunday at her home, 606 Niagara Street.

Born in Smith's Falls, Ont., she lived in New Westminster before her marriage to G. J. Burns Burnett, organist and composer.

She was widely known as a singer at church services, and introduced many of her husband's compositions. She did not sing in public after 1920.

PIONEER BAPTIST

Her father was Rev. Robert Lennie, a pioneer Baptist minister here. Her husband had his own studio, and was organist at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for 13 years, then at St. John's Anglican Church for 37 years. He died in 1941.

Surviving are three daughters. Mrs. John Eltringham, at home; Mrs. Hector Alexander, Victoria, and Mrs. James Edmunds, Vancouver; a sister, Mrs. E. H. McEwen, New Westminster; two brothers, E. D. Lennie, Toronto, and Dr. F. H. Lennie, Vancouver.

The funeral will be held Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. at Sands, and interment will be at Royal Oak Burial Park.

B.C.

They will consider various proposals for appeal action.

Mr. Bonner said he hopes Charles Brazier, Vancouver lawyer who was representing the province when the rate boost hearings were held by the board of transport, will be back from Ottawa in time to attend.

V.I. PAYS

Victoria Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager John Copping said the increase means the people of Vancouver Island will share with nearly all Canadians in paying higher prices for food, clothing, building materials and a host of other products which move by rail.

"In addition the prices of all our manufactured goods moving to the mainland will likely have to be increased. This will make it just that much more difficult for our industry to compete in mainland markets. This is where the real danger of higher freight rates lies for island people and the people of B.C. in general."

Cabinet Studies Phone Hike Appeal

OTTAWA (CP)—Forty-one Quebec and Ontario municipalities and eight provinces today appealed to the Cabinet against a rate increase awarded the Bell Telephone Company Oct. 10 by the Board of Transport Commissioners.

The appeal was heard by cabinet behind closed doors in a committee room in the Centre block of the Parliament Buildings.

The appeal is against an average 5% increase, effective Dec. 1.

MILLIONAIRE TO HUNT ABOMINABLE SNOWMAN

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI)—U.S. oil millionaire Tom Slick today asked the Nepalese government for permission to send an expedition into the Himalayan mountains to search for the abominable snowman.

The four-man team is expected to concentrate its search in the Barun Valley of the Everest and Makalu ranges, but it may visit the mountain kingdom of Mustang to examine the skin of a strange animal that could be the mysterious, human-like creature oft-times sighted in the mountains.

POWER

He has compared this course with giving away the wealth of the province which belongs rightly to future generations.

FROM ONTARIO

The man who will replace Mr. Briggs as acting general manager, R. C. McDermott, became chief engineer in February, 1956. He came to the commission from Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, where he was senior project engineer.

In that capacity he was in charge of all project engineering for hydraulic engineering, storage dams and diversions, including the huge power developments on the Canadian side of the St. Lawrence sea-way project.

Mr. McDermott was also associated with the planning of the $320,000,000 Sir Adam Beck generating station at Niagara Falls and many other big Ontario Hydro developments. He joined Ontario Hydro on graduation from the University of Toronto in 1930.

He is the full text of the statement issued by Mr. Briggs this morning:

"The time has now come for me to establish clearly the course of action which hereafter I propose to follow. "Except to defend my contentions, which I am prepared to do to the utmost, I am most anxious from this point on to withdraw entirely into the background. I ask and indeed beg of the members of the press and others, that they consider my part of this distasteful job as done and finished."

"As stated at the outset, I have no political ambitions whatsoever, and will not consent to run for public office. My personality and my tastes are not suited to that calling. Nevertheless, I continue to believe that for others there are great opportunities and high honor to be gained in every single level of Canadian political life, from the smallest municipal constituency to the Prime Ministership of our country."

"I cannot thus withdraw without expressing my sincere admiration for the way in which the newspaper people, the radio and the TV people have stood behind me in the presentation of this material to the people of this province, during a very trying time.

"The reactions which are units took up precautionary positions around all foreign embassies and around government offices.

At noon, Abdou summoned the ambassadors of all 22 nations represented here, including the United States, the Soviet Union and the U.A.R. envoys.

He read them the text of his declaration of power and then asked for prompt recognition from their governments.

Business went on as usual in the capital. The quiet seemed complete except for the precautionary troop dispositions and the unusually heavy diplomatic activity by the foreign envoys.

There was another exception. Under a decree from Abdou, all newspapers and pamphlets were suspended, and for a time telephone service to Cairo and London was halted.

TWO PROBLEMS

The coup followed development of two major problems here, one external and one internal:

Egypt protests against increased diversion of water from the River Nile into a new irrigation project in Sudan.

Pending acceptance of United States aid which some members of parliament claimed went beyond the mandate of the government.

The latter point was the biggest issue due to come up at a session of parliament which was scheduled today before it was dissolved.

MURPHY ATTACKS

When Sudan was born a republic on Jan. 1, 1956, the question of union with Egypt was the biggest issue faced by the country.

In recent months, however, this point had become submerged under the more pressing problems of independence.

In Cairo, the first impression was that the coup was a cleanup drive to assure stability.

It was felt Sudan should remain an independent country. It was not seen in Cairo at first sight as a revolt in the U.A.R.'s favor.

disputes. The Act was based on voluntary action in that the party was free to invoke or accept conciliation or both could agree on arbitration.

Their First Test

King and the new Conciliation Act met their first test in October, 1900, in a strike in Valleyfield, Quebec. Laborers engaged in excavation work for a new factory for the Montreal Cotton Company struck for higher wages, which were refused. The company then brought the dispute to close by discontinuing the work for the strikers."

Kingsmere Summer

King spent a large part of the summer of 1901 at Kingsmere, a rural district in the province of Quebec some 12 miles from Ottawa. He and Albert Harper had cycled there the preceding Thanksgiving, the time of year when the whole country was aflame with the red, copper, and yellow of the hardwoods standing in relief against the darker shades of the evergreens.

The two friends were delighted with what they saw, especially with King Mountain, Kingsmere Lake, and the unspoiled natural forest which covered the whole area. A few cottages had already been built near the lake, and the two enthusiasts decided to come out the following summer and stay at a house where their friends, Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Herridge, were accustomed to bring their children.

Two years later he built a little cottage on the brow of this hill. It contained a large living room in which he usually slept and several small rooms, with a veranda on the front and on one side. The cottage's chief distinction was a fireplace (copied from one in Shakespeare's home at Stratford-on-Avon), and King decided to use this special feature for an opening ceremony to which he had invited a few friends.

King dedicated the fireplace to Harper's memory (he had been drowned in 1901), and the fire was lit — only to drive all the guests choking from the room when it was discovered that despite the Shakespearean model, the fireplace refused to draw.

Permanent Foothold

This first cottage gave King a permanent foothold in Kingsmere which he never ceased to cherish. He quickly developed the habit of spending all his available time there in the summer rather than seek the charms of the sea shore or inland resorts. Kingsmere was the first and only love of his

Personal Factors

Several personal factors contributed to King's success. His first great qualification for this work was his friendly manner and exceptional charm. He met the contestants without delay or ceremony, inspired their confidence, and created the impression that he understood and to some degree, at least, sympathized with the position each had adopted. Most people found difficulty in resisting his courtesy, his patience, and his genuine interest in their problems. "By his tact and good management," wrote the Mayor of Oshawa, Fred L. Fowke, to William Mulock in December, 1900. "Mr. King appears to have brought about an understanding between the Malleable Iron Co. and their employees which we hope will create bonds of unity not easily to be broken in the future . . . Mr. King seems to have quieted their (the stockholders') nerves and quite won their respect and confidence, while at the same time he captured the hearts of the strikers."

In May, 1904, he worked away at painting the new cottage "on the Sabbath" (as his mother remarked reproachfully), and later in the summer Mr. and Mrs. King and Jennie joined him for a month. "This is an ideal spot for a house," wrote his sister Jennie, "and the house itself is as quaint as it can be. I don't think it at all tiny and (it) is certainly awfully pretty. He (Billy) has shown remarkably good taste in his curtains, etc., and I only wish you could see it too. All his doors, windows, etc. are painted white and it makes the place so fresh. I sleep in the big room and we use the other bedroom for a dining room. It is all lovely and Billy is so happy."

Born in Derby, Eng., Mr. Land resided here for the past 40 years. He was a First World War veteran, a charter member of the Lions Club, a member of the Victoria Cricket Association and former choir master of Belmont United Church.

He is survived by the widow, Kate, at home, 1517 Burton; a daughter, Mrs. Maude Hatch; a son, Norman, of Victoria, and several grandchildren.

In Headlines

"Again the Conciliation Act," "Mr. King Exonerated" (in the Valleyfield affair), "Triumph for Conciliation," "Call in Mr. King," "Deputy Minister King is Coming," were typical headlines in the press. Nor was King above giving the record a little additional help. "Rex and I have been getting some cheap newspaper notoriety," wrote Harper. "The information is I think pretty much as Rex dictated it . . . For myself I don't think it proper nor even wise for young men to keep blowing their trumpets too loudly. Vanity is Rex's great weakness however, and will I fear remain an alloy in his character to the close."

Few young men of 26 could remain unaffected by such success. Within a few months of taking up his work in the department of labor King had acquired a national reputation. In the years that followed his reputation was materially enlarged. With it came a variety of honors and awards at least one of which was unexpected, not to say amusing.

On a July day in 1904 while he was representing the dominion government in an industrial dispute at Sydney, Nova Scotia, King was invited to dine on the French cruiser Troude. He stepped aboard to the greeting of an 11-gun salute.

Jack Davey, of Vancouver, was elected new president when 44 members of the 7th Battalion Association, Canadian Expeditionary Force, met at the Glenfriar Hotel, Saturday, for their annual dinner and reunion.

The new secretary is D. R. Donaldson, committee members Fred Dawson, Henry Jarvis, Tom Dempster, Forrest Shaw and Eric Henderson.

Among others present were Stanley Smith, Ingersoll, Ont.; "Red" Kelly, Alberni, and "Tiny" Seymour, Courtenay.

Bill Hudson, Walter Roche and G. R. Gregson provided entertainment.

John Ciceri told of a recent visit to Ypres.

Assuming that wages represent half the cost of construction today, then the government's share of a project is only 25 per cent and to get this a city must invest 75 per cent.

Low interest loans from the government, rather than the conditional gift now offered, would enable cities such as Courtenay to undertake schemes which would be of value to the city and which are now being put off because of high cost, a factor which promises to increase rather than decrease as time goes

COURTEEN ARGUS

Under our British parliamentary system, government in dispute, as our Social Credit government stands today, should, in the best interests of the province, resign and stand before the highest court in the land—the people.

Born in Derby, Eng., Mr. Land resided here for the past 40 years. He was a First World War veteran, a charter member of the Lions Club, a member of the Victoria Cricket Association and former choir master of Belmont United Church.

He is survived by the widow, Kate, at home, 1517 Burton; a daughter, Mrs. Maude Hatch; a son, Norman, of Victoria, and several grandchildren.

He is survived by the widow, Kate, at home, 1517 Burton; a daughter, Mrs. Maude Hatch; a son, Norman, of Victoria, and several grandchildren.

While we realize that decisions of this magnitude are made almost exclusively by Mr. Bennett in the case of the present government, we feel that pressure from his own group of members would bring moral justice to the front much faster.

Assuming that wages represent half the cost of construction today, then the government's share of a project is only 25 per cent and to get this a city must invest 75 per cent.

Low interest loans from the government, rather than the conditional gift now offered, would enable cities such as Courtenay to undertake schemes which would be of value to the city and which are now being put off because of high cost, a factor which promises to increase rather than decrease as time goes infecting the economy.

It followed that Vancouver Island livestock and poultry raisers today are the result of months of negotiations between Charles E. S. Walls, secretary-manager of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, and the federal government.

Vancouver Island livestock and poultry raisers said the new policy will have far-reaching effects on the economy of B.C.'s agricultural industry.

"It means we will pay less for our grain," said Brian Hoole, Saanich dairyman. "We have been wanting this for years."

Poultry raisers said the policy will permit them to meet outside competition.

'Free Trade' Ruling Hailed by Farmers

Vancouver Island livestock and poultry raisers today hailed a new policy of the Canadian Wheat Board as one of the "best things to happen to B.C.'s agricultural industry in years."

The board has agreed to permit wheat farmers in the Peace River and Creston-Wynndell areas of B.C. to deal directly with livestock and poultry feeders in other parts of the province.

It also agreed to pay part of the freight costs for moving the grain to farmers living outside the two wheat-growing areas.

In the past, the wheat board, which acts as agent for all wheat growers in Canada, refused to permit farmer-to-farmer transactions in grain within the province.

It followed that Vancouver Island and most mainland livestock raisers were obliged to buy grain directly from the board at a fixed price.

This placed B.C. producers at a disadvantage with Prairie producers as they had to pay the full board price, plus freight, for their grain, whereas Prairie farmers enjoyed free trade for the purchase of their feed requirements.

The board's new ruling is

Inco Metals at work in Canada

Inco Copper helps you enjoy modern electrical living

... but three Canadian homes out of five need up-to-date wiring

SUPPOSE the house you're living in is ten years old or more. The original wiring system did its job well in those days. But can this same wiring system handle the many new appliances you have in 1958? Or in five or ten years from now?

Probably not. Even some new houses are not properly wired to carry the electrical load you need in your home. In fact, more than 3 out of every 5 Canadian homes have inadequate or out-of-date wiring.

If your home is one of these, it means that you're not getting good service from your appliances. They're operating too slowly . . . using more electricity than they should . . . and costing you more money. Lights are not as bright as they ought to be. Electric motors operate slowly. Fuses may be blowing. These are sure signs of inadequate wiring. And it could mean that you're playing with fire . . . because overloaded wiring can help create a fire hazard.

Make sure your home has a safe and up-to-date wiring system. If you spot any of the tell-tale signs, call in an electrical contractor and have him inspect the wiring. He can show you how to enjoy the safety and convenience of modern electrical living.

Inco supplies copper to Canadian companies for the manufacture of heavy duty power cable and the wiring that goes into your home. And you use many other products made from Inco ORC® Brand Copper every day. For more than half of all the copper produced by Inco is used right here in Canada. Another example of the way Inco metals serve the Canadian industries that serve you.
